■ Estimated Offer Price per Share Calculation

The Offer Price per Share has been estimated in accordance with the method of allotment to shareholders generally adopted in the market.

Offer price per share is calculated per Article 57 of the “Enforcement Decree of the FSCMA, and the Regulation on Securities Issuance and Disclosures” despite that in the case of this Offering, where all newly issued shares are allotted to existing shareholders, the issuer may freely determine the offer price per Article 5-18 of the “Regulations on the Issuance and Disclosure of Securities.” This decision was made by the Issuer in consideration of minimizing market confusion by following the existing practice commonly done in follow-on offering transactions. Detailed calculation methodologies of Estimated Offer Price, Base Price A, Base Price B, and the Final Offering Price are as follows, and all amounts below the order placement unit shall be rounded up to the nearest order placement unit.

1. Estimated Offer Price: The trading day (12 June 2023) immediately preceding the date on which the board of directors of the Company passes a resolution for this offering (13 June 2023) is taken as the calculation date of valuation. The reference share price is the lower of (a) the price of the arithmetic mean of the volume-weighted average share price (being calculated based on the total traded value of the share at the exchange) over the last one-month, last one-week and the closing price of the calculation date and (b) the closing price of the calculation date. A 3.5% discount rate is then applied to such reference share price, and the issuance price is calculated using the following formula:

$$\text{Reference Price} \times [1 - \text{Discount Rate (3.5\%)}]$$

► Estimated Offer Price = -----

$$1 + [\text{Capital Increase Ratio (7.64\%)} \times \text{Discount Rate (3.5\%)}]$$

④ In cases where a company makes an allotment of new shares to other persons than its shareholders pursuant to paragraph (2), the company shall notify the shareholders of the matters set forth in subparagraphs 1, 2, 2-2, 3, and 4 of Article 416 by no later than two weeks before the date of payment of the subscription price, or shall publicly notify the same.

Article 419 (Peremptory Notice to Holders of Warrants)

① A company shall notify the holders of warrants of the classes and number of shares subject to such warrants and that their rights shall be forfeited if they fail to apply for subscription to new shares on or before a fixed date. In such cases, if the matters set forth in subparagraphs 5 and 6 of Article 416 have been determined, the details thereof shall also be notified.

② A notice under paragraph (1) shall be given at least two weeks before the date set forth in paragraph (1).

③ In cases where a holder of warrants fails to apply for subscription to new shares on or before the specified date after a notice under paragraph (1) is given, his/her rights shall be forfeited.

Article 420 (Share Subscription Forms)

Directors shall prepare a share subscription form containing the following matters:

1. Matters set forth in Article 289 (1) 2 through 4;
2. Matters set forth in Article 302 (2) 7, 9 and 10;
3. Matters set forth in subparagraphs 1 through 4 of Article 416;

6. Date of the resolution on the issuance of shares.

Article 420-2 (Issuance of Warrants)

① In cases where a company has provided for matters set forth in subparagraph 5 of Article 416, the company shall issue warrants in accordance with subparagraph 6 of Article 416, if applicable, or issue them at least two weeks prior to the date under Article 419 (1), as the case may be.

② Each warrant shall contain a serial number in addition to the following and directors shall write their names and affix their seals, or shall affix their signatures, thereon:

1. A statement to the effect that it is a warrant;
2. Matters set forth in Article 420;
3. The class and number of shares subject to the warrant;
4. A statement to the effect that the right shall be forfeited if subscription to shares is not applied for on or before the specified date.

Article 420-3 (Transfer of Warrants)

① A warrant shall be transferred only by the delivery of the warrant thereof.

② The provisions of Article 336 (2) of this Act and Article 21 of the Check Act shall apply mutatis mutandis to warrants.

Article 420-4 (Electronic Registration of Warrants)

As prescribed in the articles of incorporation, a company may register warrants with the electronic registration ledger of an electronic registration agency, in lieu of issuing warrants. In such cases, the provisions of Article 356-2 (2) through (4) shall apply mutatis mutandis.

Article 420-5 (Applications for Subscription by Warrants)

① If a warrant has been issued, subscription to shares shall be applied for by the certificate. In such cases, the provisions of Article 302 (1) shall apply mutatis mutandis.

② A person who has lost a warrant may apply for subscription to shares by the share subscription form: Provided, that such offer shall become null and void if the application for subscription to shares is made by a warrant.

As listed above, the majority of the regulations regarding follow-on offering for ordinary listed companies do not apply to the Company. On the trading day immediately preceding the filing date of the Registration Statement, the Company's NAV per share was KRW 6,383.48 whereas the Company's share price at the exchange (as of 31 May) was KRW 13,590. Since the NAV per share is significantly lower than the share price, it is not appropriate to calculate the Offer Price based on the Company's net asset value.

Therefore, for the Offering, the Offer Price may be calculated "in consideration of the price that is traded in the stock market" and with other legal requirements being the "number of new shares, issuing price, and payment date shall be determined by the board of directors."

However, in order to minimize confusion by investors, the Company has decided to adopt, mutatis mutandis, one of the public offering processes defined in the FSCMA (Article 165-6 Paragraph 1 Item 3 and Article 165-6 Paragraph 4 Item 4 of the same Act). This Offering, in order to maximize the protection of the rights and interests of existing shareholders, has been structured as per Article 418 Paragraph 1 of the Commercial Act mutatis mutandis, where the Company's existing shareholders are entitled to all of the newly issued shares. According to Article 418 Paragraph 1 of the Commercial Act, shareholders of a corporation hold the right to be allocated new shares, and the reason for guaranteeing such right is to protect the rights and interests of shareholders by preventing dilution of the shareholders' share ratio. In addition, existing shareholders who do not wish to participate in the subscription may transfer/sell their warrants. This structure was put in place by the Company to maximize shareholder protection by allowing them to recoup some of the dilution loss.

The Offering will become a public offering should there be any forfeited shares subsequent to the subscription by and allotment to existing shareholders. The Company has applied mutatis mutandis to Article 165-6 Paragraph 2 Item 1 and Article 176-8 Paragraph 1 of the FSCMA and signed a standby underwriting contract with NH Investment & Securities Co., Ltd., KB Securities Co., Ltd., Korea Investment & Securities Co., Ltd., Samsung Securities Co., Ltd. and Shinhan Securities Co., Ltd. The Company plans to issue and list subscription certificates on the stock market.

In terms of subscription in excess of the allotted shares, the limit is set at 20/100 in accordance with Article 165-6 (2) 2 of the FSCMA and Article 176-8 (2) of the Enforcement Decree of the FSCMA. However, the Company which is an investment and financing company under the PPP Act and an investment company under the FSCMA, is not subject to Article 165-6 and related regulations, and the over subscription limit shall be set at 100/100. As an example, as the allotment ratio for the Offering is 0.0764138528, a hypothetical shareholder with 10,000 shares of the Company would be allotted 764 shares (rounded down to the nearest share), and the over subscription limit shall be 764 shares (1 over subscription share per 1 allotted share).

2. Offering specified persons (including persons holding stocks of the relevant stock-listed corporation) an opportunity to make subscription for new stocks, in order to allocate new stocks to them through other methods than that prescribed in subparagraph 1, where it is necessary to achieve the managerial purpose of the corporation, such as for the introduction of a new technology or the improvement of financial structure; and

2. In cases falling under paragraph (1) 1, where the relevant stock-listed corporation and a shareholder agree separately at the time the subscription is made to make a subscription for stocks exceeding the number of stocks to be allocated under the subscription for new stocks (hereafter referred to as "excessive subscription" in this subparagraph), with the purpose of allocating the forfeited stocks preferentially to such shareholder who has made the excessive subscription. In such cases, the number of forfeited stocks to be allocated shall not exceed the number of stocks calculated by multiplying the number of stocks to be allocated under the subscription for new stocks by the percentage prescribed by Presidential Decree;

4. Offering specifically categorized persons an opportunity to make subscriptions for new stocks in accordance with reasonable standards prescribed by the Presidential Decree, such as a demand forecast prepared by an investment trader or investment broker as an underwriter or intermediary, which is a method acknowledged by the Financial Services Commission.

⑤ “Reasonable standards prescribed by the Presidential Decree, such as a demand forecast” in Article 165-6 Paragraph 4 Item 4 of the Act means the demand forecast (it refers to identifying the investors’ demand for the price and volume of shares to be issued and the investors’ investment tendency, such as the holding period of shares, in accordance with the method prescribed by the Financial Services Commission).

Offer price per share is calculated per Article 57 of the “Enforcement Decree of the FSCMA, and the Regulation on Securities Issuance and Disclosures” despite that in the case of this Offering, where all newly issued shares are allocated to existing shareholders, the issuer may freely determine the offer price per Article 5-18 of the “Regulations on the Issuance and Disclosure of Securities.” This decision was made by the Issuer in consideration of minimizing market confusion by following the existing practice commonly done in follow-on offering transactions. For more detail regarding the calculation of the Estimated Offer Price, please refer to 3. Estimated Offering Amounts.

Following the review of the Offering structure and type against all relevant regulations and market practices as above, the Company determines to launch a new share offering as below.

B. Preferred Shares	-
C. Total Number of Shares Issued (A + B)	404,845,547 Shares
D. Treasury Shares + Treasury Share Trust	-
E. Total Number of Shares Issued Excluding Treasury Shares (C - D)	404,845,547 Shares
F. Number of New Share Issuance	30,935,808 Shares
G. New Shares as % of Outstanding Shares before the Offering(F/C)	7.64 %
H. Allotment to Existing Shareholders	30,935,808 Shares
I. Allotment Ratio per Share for Existing Shareholders (H/ E)	0.0764138528 Shares

Note 1: The subscription unit for existing shareholders is one share. The individual subscription limit for existing shareholders is determined by the number of allotted shares calculated by the sum of (i) the number of shares within the allotment limit which is each share possessed by the shareholders enlisted on the list of shareholders as of the new share allotment date multiplied by the new share allotment ratio of 0.0764138528 (any value below 1 share will be rounded downwards) and (ii) the number of shares that meet the over-subscription limit (1 share per share within allotment limit; over subscription ratio of 100%); provided that with respect to the number shares subscribed which exceed the subscription limit shall be deemed null.

(i) Subscription limit for existing shareholders = Number of shares within allotment limit + Number of shares that meet the over-subscription limit

(ii) Number of shares within allotment limit = Number of shares in possession x New share allotment ratio (0.0764138528 shares) (however, round down any value below 1 share)

(iii) Number of shares that meet the over-subscription limit = Number of shares within allotment limit x over-subscription ratio (100%). As an example, as the allotment ratio for the Offering is 0.0764138528, a hypothetical shareholder with 10,000 shares of the Company would be allotted 764 shares (rounded down to the nearest share), and the over subscription limit shall be 764 shares (1 over subscription share per 1 allotted share). As a result, the individual subscription limit for the existing shareholder with 10,000 shares of the Company would be 1,528 shares, which is the sum of the number of shares within the allotment limit (764 shares) and the number of shares that meet the over-subscription limit (764 shares).

Note 1: As an investment company under the Private Investment Act and an investment company under the FSCMA, the Company is not subject to Article 418 of the Commercial Act (Terms of Warrants, Designation and Public Notice of Record Date for Allotment) so there is no obligation to issue new shares and announce the base date. Nevertheless, in order to protect the rights and interests of the shareholders, the issuance of new shares and the announcement of the base dates were carried out and the announcement of the new share issuance and the base date was completed as soon as possible without disturbing the capital increase schedule.

Note 2: The Financial Supervisory Services may request revision during the review process for the registration statement and the schedule listed on this document may change according to the request for revision and others. An execution of the registration statement does not confirm that the listed items within this document are true or correct and does not translate to the government guaranteeing or authorizing the value of these securities and therefore, the responsibilities for the investment of these securities fall solely on the shareholders and the investors.

Note 3: The ex-right means a loss of the right to receive new shares by a person who becomes owning the company's share after the date of the new shares allotment base date as a company assigns a new share to a then-existing shareholder as of such date. (2) Subscription Method

1) Subscription unit for existing shareholders (subscription for warrants): one who was allotted with the warrants as a shareholder and who has purchased and held warrants can subscribe within the limit of the number of certificates held at each headquarter and branch office of the securities company that was deposited with the warrant and of the Joint Lead Managers. However, registered shareholders among existing shareholders who directly hold their own stock certificates without depositing them to a securities company may subscribe at a headquarter or branch of each Joint Lead Manager upon submitting a personal identification, together with the new share allotment notice. A subscription deposit amount is 100% of the Offering Amounts, and the subscription deposits are replaced by a payment on the share payment date with no interest on the subscription deposits.

The electronic securities system has been implemented since 16 September 2019, and listed shares of listed corporations have been converted into electronic securities as mandatory electronic securities conversion subjects on the effective date of the electronic securities system. Before the implementation of the electronic securities system, shares of beneficial shareholders which are deposited in a securities company have been collectively converted into electronic securities in the account of the securities company, and shares held by existing registered shareholders are issued to a special account opened by a transfer agency and managed for each holder.

For this capital increase, the warrants will be issued and listed after the effective date of the electronic securities system and will be issued as electronic securities. Warrants allotted for shares held by shareholders in a securities company account (formerly bona fide shareholders stockholding) are issued and received in the account of the relevant securities companies, and warrants allotted regarding shares managed in a special account of a transfer agency (formerly 'listed shareholders stockholding') is issued to each holder in a special account within the transfer agency.

Once 'special account holders (formerly 'listed shareholders') apply for the transfer of warrants from a 'special account' to a 'general electronic registration account (securities company account)' with a transfer agency, then they are able to participate in the subscription for this capital increase or trade the warrants.

'Special account holders (formerly 'listed shareholders') can also subscribe to this capital increase by directly subscribing at headquarters or branches of the Joint Lead Managers without transferring warrants to the 'general electronic registration account (securities company account).' However, please note that the purchase and sale of warrants is only possible after applying for the transfer of warrants from a special account to a general electronic registration account (an account of a securities company) with a transfer agency.

2) Over Subscription: only those who have subscribed for warrants under Paragraph 1 may subscribe to additional 100% of the subscription limit for warrants. However, subscription deposits shall be 100% of the over subscription amount, and the subscription deposits shall be replaced with the payment on the share payment date with no interest on the subscription deposits.

3) Public offering subscription: Upon presenting a personal identification, an allotted subscription form and subscription deposits to the relevant subscription location in accordance with the subscription method determined and publicly announced by the relevant subscription location. However, the subscription deposits must be 100% of the subscription amount, and the subscription deposits shall be replaced with a payment on the share payment date with no interest for the subscription deposits. Multiple subscriptions per subscription location are permissible, but double subscriptions at one subscription location are not, and among collective investment vehicles, excluding a collective investment vehicle managed by a different management entity, multiple subscriptions at one subscription location are not permissible. In addition, as of the subscription date, only customers who have a consignment account can subscribe at the subscription location, and a subscription is permissible by opening an account before the subscription termination date.

4) Investors who wish to subscribe to this capital increase (excluding ‘persons to whom the issuer is exempt from issuing prospectus’ under Article 132 of the Enforcement Decree of the FSCMA and ‘professional investors’ under the FSCMA) must receive the prospectus before subscription and must sign or seal the document evidencing the aforementioned.

5) Other matters

1. When there is a double subscription in allotting the public offering, it is deemed that the subscriber has not subscribed for all of the subscriptions. However, in the event of the public offering participation after subscribing in accordance with the number of warrants held by the holders of the warrants, it is not deemed to be a prohibited double subscription.
2. For a portion of the subscription that exceeds the subscription limit per person, it is considered that there is no subscription.
3. A subscriber must subscribe with its legal name in accordance with the Act on Real Name Financial Transactions and Confidentiality.
4. 2. The subscription limit of the public offering subscribers is the same as the number of shares in which forfeited rights have been triggered after allotting shareholders including shares of the over subscription within the limit of the total number of the publicly offered shares. (4) Subscription Outcome and Allotment Method

- Existing shareholders' subscription (subscription of warrants): It is allotted pursuant to the number of subscribed shares within the range of warrants held by existing shareholders (although the special provisions for stock-listed companies under Chapter 3-2 of Part 3 of the FSCMA do not apply to companies that are investment companies, in accordance with Article 165-6, Paragraph 3 of the FSCMA and Articles 5-19 of the 'Regulations on Issuance and Announcement of Securities', warrants is issued to existing shareholders).
- Allotment for over subscription: in the case of forfeited shares (including fractional shares) triggered after the subscription of existing shareholders (holders of warrants), forfeited shares are allotted in proportion to the number of shares subscribed in excess (over subscription ratio: 1 share per allotted new share) by the existing shareholder (the holder of warrants). In such a case, shares less than one share are not allotted with rounding down (However, 100% allotment if the number of shares for the over subscription is less than the number of forfeited shares)

3. Public Offering Subscription subscriber or an institutional investor without distinction. A subscription competition rate and allotment for such 5% of the publicly offered shares with respect to a high-risk high-return investment trust and such remaining 95% of the publicly offered shares for an individual subscriber and an institutional investor is calculated and allotted, separately. However, in the case of shares not being fully subscribed by one group, the remainder of the shares is to be allotted to a group that subscribed.

1. When calculating the allotment amount for the public offering, in relation to the amount of each subscription of the Joint Lead Managers (means the number of subscribed shares applied as the public offering method at each subscription location of the Joint Lead Managers and calculated individually for Joint Lead Managers), it is allotted to each subscriber of the Joint Lead Managers ('combined allotment') in accordance with the integrated competition ratio which equals to the total number of the subscription of the Joint Lead Managers (referring to the total subscription amount received by the Joint Lead Managers which was applied through public offering) divided by shares allotted for the public offering.
2. In the event of an allotment in relation to the public offering, if the total subscription amount of the Joint Lead Managers exceeds the number of shares allotted for the public offering, in principle, the remaining shares are allotted on a pro rata basis and by rounding downwards any value less than 5 and rounding upwards any value of at least 5 to minimize the number of shares not allotted. Thereafter, the final remaining shares are allotted to subscribers in the order of their subscription size, but if the number of the largest subscribers of the same rank is greater than the final remaining stocks, the Joint Lead Managers will randomly allot them through a lottery method.
3. In the event that the total subscription amount of the Joint Lead Managers is less than the number of shares allotted for the public offering, the Joint Lead Managers are each obligated to acquire the forfeited shares in accordance within the underwriting limit as stipulated by the stand-by underwriting agreement ("the mandatory number of shares to be acquired") but in the event that a Joint Lead Manager fails to fulfill its obligation to acquire, another joint lead manager must subscribe jointly and severally.
4. However, pursuant to Article 9 Paragraph 2 of the "Regulations on Securities Underwriting, Business, Etc.", the Joint Lead Managers are not required to allot to a public offering in the case where the amount of a public offering allotted to a high-risk high-return investment trust and/or retail investor is less than KRW 100 million

[Acquisition Ratio of the Joint Lead Managers under the Stand-by Underwriting Agreement]

Category	Category	Ratio of mandatory shares to be acquired within the Underwriting Limit
Joint Lead Managers	NH Investment & Securities Co., Ltd.	35%
	KB Securities Co., Ltd.	25%
	Korea Investment & Securities Co., Ltd.	15%
	Samsung Securities Co., Ltd.	15%
	Shinhan Securities Co., Ltd.	10%

Footnote) The detailed method for calculating the number of shares to be acquired by each of the Joint Lead Managers is subject to the stand-by underwriting agreement.

- 4) If the amount of the shares to be allotted for the public offering is equal to or less than KRW 100 million, it will not be allotted to the subscriber and may be directly acquired by the Joint Lead Managers.

Among the total of 18 projects in which the Company has invested (17 projects in which the Company has already invested as of 31 March 2023, and a project which the Company announced on 2 June 2023 that it had made its investment), 15 project companies (used interchangeably with "assets") are concessionaires in public-private partnerships based on concession agreements with relevant government authorities. The relevant government authority is required to pay the required amount to the concessionaire in accordance with the respective concession agreement; however, the payment obligation may be unfulfilled or delayed due to the government policy, financial difficulty of the relevant government authority or other reasons during the deliberation or execution of budget of the relevant government authority. [Concession/Operation Period and Government Support Period]

Note 1) Based on MKIF's investment amounts and investment commitment in Dongbuk Urban Railway Co., Ltd. and Incheon-Gimpo Expressway Co., Ltd.

Note 2) Revenue guarantee and cost compensation payments received from competent authorities, toll freeze compensations related to the CPI growth, etc. The weighted average support payment period is based on the periods of government support payments other than toll freeze compensation, as toll freeze compensation is typically covered throughout the entire concession term

Note 3) Project companies have the right to receive payments if the relevant concession agreement is terminated prior to the expiration of the concession term, including termination due to events attributable to the concession company, the competent authority, or for events of force majeure

Note 4) Construction period of 5 years (2021~2026) is expected, followed by a 30-year concession period

The concession agreements outline the obligations that each party must fulfill including the payment responsibilities by the relevant government authority to the concessionaires. The following are examples of such payment obligations.

[Payment Obligations]

Item	Description
Minimum Revenue Guarantee ("MRG")	- If the amount of the operating income fails to meet the estimated operating income of the concession agreement during a particular operating period, the relevant government authority bears a portion of the market risk by making up for the deficit up to the amount determined in the concession agreement. - In the past, the MRG clause has been inserted in concession agreements for the purpose of attracting private investors, supporting outside loans and mitigating uncertainty during the early operating stages. The level of MRG has played an important role in determining the credibility of public-private partnership projects. - However, as the MRG has placed a heavy financial burden on government authorities, government authorities no longer provide the MRG for new public-private partnerships and are in the process of amending terms of the existing businesses for which government authorities have been covering the MRG (e.g. profit sharing through refinancing, project restructuring, etc.). However, this is only possible through mutual agreement with the existing concessionaires.

Toll-freeze compensation	- The concession agreement provides the level of toll fare that the concessionaire may collect from the users (the “ Agreed Toll ”). As the actually collected toll (the “ Actual Toll ”) is determined and approved by the relevant government authority, if the Actual Toll is lower than the Agreed Toll, the relevant government authority must guarantee the difference between the Agreed Toll and the Actual Toll (e.g. the difference between the Agreed Toll and the Actual Toll x number of users) (For restructured businesses, the concessionaire’s earnings may be guaranteed through means other than the guarantee of the difference between the Agreed Toll and the Actual Toll).
Payment Based on Terms of Restructuring	- For the restructured businesses, the relevant government authority may calculate and guarantee the deficit payable to the concessionaire through means other than the MRG or the guarantee of the difference between the Agreed Toll and the Actual Toll (e.g. reimbursement of expenses) in accordance with the terms of restructuring.
Termination Payment for Early Termination of Business	- If the public-private partnership has been terminated prior to the agreed termination date, the relevant government authority must pay the termination payment to the concessionaire in accordance with the concession agreement and the grounds for such termination. However, there may be a dispute between the relevant government authority and the concessionaire relating to the grounds for the termination, the terms of calculation of the termination payment and other terms of payment.
Other Exemptions and Additional Expenses Incurred by Relevant Government Authority’s Request	- There exist various forms of toll discounts based on government policy (e.g. local resident discount, city bus discount, environment friendly vehicle discount, holiday toll exemption, etc.). Some of the losses incurred by such toll discounts may be reimbursed by the relevant government authorities or other government authorities. - If the toll collection method has changed or additional capital expenditure is required based on a request by the relevant government authority or a change in the relevant legislation, the relevant government authority may be obligated to provide compensation. - Additional payment obligations by the relevant government authority may exist in accordance with the concession agreement and other related agreements.

MRG is a scheme for the relevant government authority to bear the market risk to a certain limit if the amount of the operating income fails to meet the estimated operating income of the original concession agreement during a particular operating period. It is a mechanism for significantly raising the possibility of recovering investments by funds, and the guarantee level differs by applied time and by the project. The level of MRG of a project has played an important role in determining the credibility of relevant public-private partnership projects. However, as the MRG payout has placed a heavy financial burden on government authorities, government authorities began to reduce the guarantee period and level in 2003. Then, it stopped providing the MRG for private-proposed projects in 2006 and government-announced projects in 2009.

[Minimum Revenue Guarantee Scheme]

- Inflation-linked revenue support from the government.
- MRG level and revenue cap level are set in connection with the forecast revenues under the concession agreement (MRG level is typically 70-90% of the forecast revenues).
- As of the reported date, credit rating of the Republic of Korea:
 - S&P: AA (stable)

The relevant government authority is required to pay the required amount to the concessionaire in accordance with the respective concession agreement, however, the payment obligation may be unfulfilled or delayed due to the government policy, financial difficulty of the relevant government authority or other reasons during the deliberation or execution of budget of the relevant government authority.

If the payment obligation of the relevant government authority or other government authorities is unfulfilled in due course, the operating performance and the financial condition of the project company may be adversely affected, weakening the project company's capability to repay its debts. (2) Legal Risks

Among the total of 18 projects in which the Company has invested (17 projects in which the Company has already invested as of 31 March 2023, and a project in which the Company announced on 2 June 2023 that it had made its investment), 15 project companies are public-private partnership projects. A public-private partnership project is a project initiated pursuant to the PPP Act to contribute to the development of the national economy by promoting the private sector to make investments in infrastructure projects that have been built and operated with government budget (roads, ports, rails, schools, and environmental facilities, etc.) and by encouraging private companies to pursue creative and efficient expansion of infrastructure sectors and operation of infrastructure assets. Investors should be aware that in case laws governing the Company and the Company's portfolio companies, including the PPP Act, are changed, it may have an adverse impact on the Company's business.

Also, the amended Toll Road Act, which was promulgated on 16 January 2018, went into effect on 17 January 2019. Within public-private projects, road projects will be subject to new restrictions following the promulgation of the amended Toll Road Act. Given that the Company's assets are mostly public-private road projects, the new restrictions may have an adverse impact on the Company's business going forward.

On the other hand, the two project companies (Haeyang Energy Co., Ltd. and Sorabol City Gas Co., Ltd.) that the Company invested through each SPC (Youngsan Clean Energy Ltd. and Bomun Clean Energy Ltd.) and CNCITY Energy Co., Ltd. that the Company announced on 2 June 2023 that it made its investment in are in city gas retail distribution business. The government grants an exclusive right to city gas retail distributors to sell city gas to customers in specified regions to prevent the overlapping investment of facilities. Therefore, there is a high barrier to entry for new companies, and it is unlikely that there will be any change in this exclusive distribution structure in the future. However, investors should be aware that changes in the legal environment that govern the Company and its business, such as the City Gas Business Act, may adversely affect the Company's business.

The Company is an investment and financing company for infrastructure assets established under the PPP Act in December 2002 and the Company's business is conducted in accordance with the PPP Act and the FSCMA. Also, pursuant to Article 41-2 of the PPP Act and Article 34 of the Enforcement Decree of the FSCMA the Company must maintain minimum net assets of KRW 1 billion for six months from the registration date and KRW 5 billion after six months from the registration date. Since an investment and financing company is deemed an investment company under the FSCMA, in principle, it is deemed a "corporation" under the Commercial Act. However, in order to further enhance the independence of the Board of Directors, the Board of Directors of an investment company consists of a corporate director (an asset management company) and at least two "supervisory directors." The Company aims to comply with applicable laws and requirements. However, unfavorable interpretation of applicable laws and subordinate regulations by relevant government authorities, changes in applicable laws or regulations, or enactment of new laws may have adverse effects on the Company which may lead to increased legal expenses. Investors should be aware that such changes in the legal environment may have an adverse effect on the Company.

Infrastructure projects in particular are widely affected by government policy and the value of the project companies invested by MKIF may fluctuate due to new tax policies and changes in legislation or basis of legal interpretation. Therefore, investors should be aware that the loans or equity investments made by the Company may also be affected.

The amended Toll Road Act that went into effect on 17 January 2019 added provisions applicable to road projects among public-public-private partnership projects apart from the PPP Act, which is the governing law of public-private partnership projects. The amended Toll Road Act set forth applicable provisions for the relevant government authority to request a privately funded road concessionaire to explain reasons or develop countermeasures if any of the events listed in the Toll Road Act occurs, such as material changes to privately funded roads or unlawful conducts by the privately funded road concessionaire. Furthermore, when the reasons or countermeasures proposed are deemed insufficient, the relevant government authority may request the concessionaire to amend the concession agreement and not pay all or part of government subsidies. As a result, while the power of the relevant government authority on a privately funded road project has increased, the discretionary rights of a concessionaire may be relatively reduced. Investors should be aware that the foregoing may have an adverse effect on the Company's business.

On the other hand, the two project companies (Haeyang Energy Co., Ltd. and Sorabol City Gas Co., Ltd.) that the Company invested through each SPC (Yongsan Clean Energy Ltd. and Bomun Clean Energy Ltd.) CNCITY Energy Co., Ltd. that the Company announced on 2 June 2023 that it made investment in, are in city gas distribution business. The LNG (Liquefied Natural Gas) distribution business in Korea is operated as follows: KOGAS imports and supplies LNG to local city gas retail distributors, and local distributors provide so supplied LNG to consumers through their own gas pipelines. The city gas business, one of the key industries just as the power and communication industries, requires a large, long-term initial investment (plumbing and safety management investment), and it holds a characteristic of monopoly, with the government granting an approval to a single entity to distribute LNG in a certain distribution zone. Therefore, local city gas retail distributors have an exclusive right with respect to a certain region, and retail prices for consumers are determined by the approval of a local government head in each region.

The main reason for the government to grant exclusive distribution rights to distributors in certain regions is to prevent the overlapping investment in distribution facilities and to ensure stable distribution of city gas, taking into account the characteristics of the city gas industry, which requires a great amount of initial investment in distribution facilities including pipelines. Therefore, considering the heavily invested pipelines already installed in respective regions, it is unlikely that there will be a change with respect to the government's policy on the exclusive right and that there a new city gas company will enter the market. Investors should note, however, that if the government policies change adversely, for example, by allowing multiple vendors to participate in the city gas distributor's market, the Company's business performance and profitability may be affected.

City gas tariffs are set with the approval from the head of the relevant local government after external verification by an accounting firm, etc. and the approval from the Price Deliberation Committee as prescribed by the ordinance of the relevant metropolitan/provincial government. Some local governments have introduced an ordinance to omit the Price Deliberation Committee's review considering that the fuel cost pass-through system has been implemented by the central government and if one year has passed since the increase of the city gas tariff and the increase rate is below the inflation target of that year. However, the ordinance may be changed again in the future.

(3) Order and Disposition by Relevant Government Authority

Among the total of 18 projects in which the Company has invested (17 projects in which the Company has already invested as of 31 March 2023, and a project in which the Company announced on 2 June 2023 that it had made its investment), 15 projects that the Company has invested in are public-private partnership projects, and the relevant government authority, as the administrative agency supervising the relevant public-private partnership projects and a party of the concession agreement, is entitled to the rights of supervision/order, the termination of business, and disposition for public interest. Notwithstanding the limited supervision and order rights as stipulated in the PPP Act, there have been instances where the relevant government authorities have exercised their rights extensively in an arbitrary manner. Also, as for privately funded roads, the amended Toll Road Act enforced recently specifies that a relevant government authority may request to change a concession agreement and not pay all or part of government subsidies in case certain conditions are met. This resulted in an increase in the power of the relevant government authority. Although the concession agreement provides the predetermined termination payment payable to the concessionaire upon the termination of the concession agreement, this termination payment may be insufficient to fully cover the concessionaire's payment obligations and performance of other obligations or to secure the full value of the investments made by the Company.

As for the remaining three city gas businesses, the relevant government authorities are the Ministry of Trade, Industry and Energy and other administrative authorities and municipal governments which deal with the city gas affairs, which have the authority to (i) grant a permit, (ii) alter or cancel a permit and (iii) issue an order for business suspension or restriction, etc. In addition, city gas suppliers must periodically undergo a precision safety diagnosis and safety assessment to be carried out by the Korea Gas Safety Corporation, and based on the result of such assessment, the Minister of Trade, Industry and Energy may order to take necessary measures such as repairment of and/or improvement in the gas supply facilities. Although it is unlikely that the permits will be revoked considering city gas companies' exclusive distribution rights with respect to certain regions, there could be an order or action of the relevant government authorities if the Company does not meet the safety requirements under the City Gas Business Act.

Among the total of 18 projects in which the Company has invested (17 projects in which the Company has already invested as of 31 March 2023, and a project in which the Company announced on 2 June 2023 that it had made its investment), 15 projects are public-private partnerships, and the relevant government authority, as the administrative agency supervising the relevant public-private partnership and a party of the concession agreement, is entitled to the following rights:

Cancellation of Permit	Where a general city gas business entity is subject to any of the subparagraphs under Article 9(1) of the City Gas Business Act, for example, failing to meet the permitted standards, violating the order to change a gas distribution plan or restricting gas distribution, etc., the head of relevant government authority may revoke such permit or order the suspension of, or the restrictions on, his/her business for a fixed period of not exceeding six months (Article 9(1) of the City gas Business Act).
Order to Change Gas Distribution Plan	Where the head of relevant government authority deems that a gas distribution plan is likely to hinder the promotion of the public interest because the gas distribution plan becomes inappropriate due to changes in social or economic circumstances, he/she may order each general city gas business entity to modify such gas distribution plan within a given period (Article 18(5) of the City gas Business Act).
Order to Apply for Approval for Change of Distribution Regulations	Where the head of relevant government authority deems that the distribution regulations are likely to hinder the promotion of the public interest because such regulations became inappropriate due to changes in social or economic circumstances, he/she may order each general city gas business entity to apply for approval of modification to such regulations within a given period (Article 20(7) of the City gas Business Act).
Order to Restrict Gas Distribution	Where it is deemed that citizens' livelihood and the public interest will be obviously hindered unless emergency restrictions are put on gas use due to a temporary shortage in the distribution of city gas, the Minister of Trade, Industry and Energy may order city gas business entities to restrict gas distribution to the necessary extent (Article 24(2) of the City gas Business Act).
Order to Change Safety Management Regulations	Any city gas business entity shall establish safety management regulations concerning the maintenance of the safety of gas distribution facilities, and shall submit the safety management regulations to the head of relevant government authority before commencing business. (4) Risks Relating to Failure of Relevant Government Authority to Fulfill Obligation to Raise Toll Fare

In relation to the 13 toll road projects and one rail project that the Company has invested in, while the concession agreement provides that the actual toll shall be raised in accordance with the agreed toll according to the principle that the users benefit from the relevant infrastructure facilities are obligated to bear the costs (the “Payment by Beneficiary Principle”), there may be cases under which the actual toll may be lower than the agreed toll due to a decision made by the head of the relevant government authority or other government authorities. As the difference between the actual toll and the agreed toll increases due to the fact that the actual toll remains lower than the agreed toll for an extended period of time, the relevant government authority may find it more difficult to normalize the actual toll, which may result in heavier financial burden for the relevant government authority. This may eventually lead to a higher chance of dispute between the relevant government authority and the concessionaire.

As for 13 toll road projects and one rail project among 15 public-private partnership projects that the Company has invested in, the concessionaire is entitled to collect the agreed toll from users pursuant to the concession agreement, and this is based on the Payment by Beneficiary Principle. As provided in the concession agreement, the agreed toll changes annually in line with the consumer price inflation rate for some of the projects, whereas the toll is determined on a nominal basis for the other projects.

In order to raise the agreed toll following an increase in the consumer price inflation rate (or any other applicable reasons), approval from the relevant government authority is required. While the concession agreement provides that the actual toll shall be raised in accordance with the agreed toll pursuant to the Payment by Beneficiary Principle, there may be cases under which the actual toll is lower than the agreed toll due to a decision made by the head of the relevant government authority or other government authorities. This obligates the relevant government authority to pay the difference between the agreed toll and the actual toll and places a heavier financial burden on the relevant government authority as the actual traffic volume increases.

As the difference between the actual toll and the agreed toll increases due to the fact that the actual toll remains lower than the agreed toll for an extended period of time, the relevant government authority may find it more difficult to normalize the actual toll, which may result in heavier financial burden for the relevant government authority. This may eventually lead to a higher chance of dispute between the relevant government authority and the concessionaire. Even if the compensation for the difference between the actual toll and the agreed toll (“toll-freeze compensation”) is to be paid by the government, the payment of the toll-freeze compensation would be subsequent to the collection of the actual toll which may lower the concessionaire’s estimated earnings and cash flow in the short term and have an adverse impact on the concessionaire’s ability to repay its debts and pay dividends.

(5) Risks Relating to Subsidy from Relevant Government Authority for Public-Private Partnership Business

15 project companies that the Company has invested in are public-private partnership projects, and seven of those may receive subsidies from the relevant government authorities pursuant to the concession agreements, including MRG payments, minimum disposable toll revenue, cost compensation payments, toll freeze compensation payments, etc.

However, there is no guarantee that the relevant government authority will pay all subsidies in cash in a timely manner in accordance with the relevant subsidy provisions under the concession agreement, and investors should be aware of it.

15 project companies that the Company has invested in are public-private partnership businesses, and seven of those may receive subsidies from the relevant government authorities based on their concession agreement, including minimum revenue guarantee, minimum disposable toll revenue, cost compensation payments, toll-freeze compensation payments, etc.

Among the projects that the Company has invested in as of 31 March 2023, the followings are the project implementation period and the terms and conditions of subsidies from the relevant government authorities for the projects set forth in the concession agreement executed with the relevant government authorities.

However, in case the payment of a subsidy to a concessionaire is delayed due to the relevant government authority's financial difficulties or other reasons, it may have an adverse impact on the operating performance and financial condition of the concessionaire. Investors should be aware that this in turn is likely to have a negative impact on the concessionaire's ability to repay its debts and pay dividends.

(6) Risks Relating to Determination of Toll Fare and City gas Retail Tariff/Distribution Costs

The Company does not have authority to adjust the toll fares of the roads the Company has invested in. Investors should be aware that the profitability of the Company may be affected negatively depending on the relevant government authority's policy.

In relation to the three city gas projects (two city gas projects already invested as of 31 March 2023 and one city gas project announced to be newly invested on 2 June 2023) that the Company has invested in, the retail price to the end users is to be determined by adding retail distribution costs to the wholesale price of KOGAS, which is subject to approval of local governments given that the city gas is considered one of public goods. There is a possibility that each local government may adjust the retail distribution costs of city gas retail distributors pursuant to the government's policies or restrictions on the increase of gas price, which may affect the Company's profitability.

Among the total of 18 projects in which the Company has invested (17 projects in which the Company has already invested as of 31 March 2023, and a project in which the Company announced on 2 June 2023 that it had made its investment), 13 are concessionaires operating toll roads. In some cases, the income of these concessionaires is partially dependent on government subsidies provided in accordance with the concession agreement, but in most cases, it is mainly dependent on the income of toll fees of each road operated. And the toll fares of these roads are determined pursuant to the terms of the concession agreements entered between the concessionaires and the relevant government authorities.

Pursuant to the concession agreement, the toll fare is determined by external factors such as the overall Korean economy, negative consumer perception against increasing toll fare, inflation rate and traffic volume. Relevant government authorities may limit raising toll fares or make requests to lower toll fares.

Traffic volume is also affected by external factors that cannot be controlled by the Company such as oil price, vehicle price and maintenance costs, population increase, natural disasters, climate conditions making driving difficult, environmental regulations limiting the use of vehicles, and overall economic conditions. Investors should be aware that the foregoing would affect the concessionaire's income and may have a negative impact on the profitability of the Company that invests in the said concessionaire.

In relation to the three city gas projects (two city gas projects already invested as of 31 March 2023 and one city gas project announced to be newly invested on 2 June 2023) that the Company has invested in, the city gas charges consist of the imported costs of LNG, and distribution costs of wholesalers and retailers. And when the gas tariff increases or decreases, the retail distribution costs shall be subject to the Price Deliberation Committee's review and the supervisory authority's rate approval procedures as the distribution costs are considered public charges. The retail distribution costs of city gas retail distributors are determined after (i) the review by the Price Deliberation Committee of the relevant local government and (ii) the verification by an independent accounting firm following the calculation by a head of relevant government authority on a total cost basis taking into account the economic characteristics of the region, demand level, business history, and costs required for distribution.

There is a possibility that each local government may adjust the retail distribution costs of city gas retail distributors pursuant to the government's policies or restrictions on the increase of gas price, which may affect the Company's profitability.

The City Gas Distribution Costs Calculation Standards, the guideline published by the Ministry of Trade, Industry and Energy, state the calculation standards for distribution costs including the fair cost and make an independent professional organization report to the head of relevant government authority after completing its independent and fair verification with respect to the fair cost and the fair return based on the accounting data submitted by the city gas retail distributor. The approval of the head of relevant government authority for distribution costs needs to be made in accordance with Article 20 (3) of the City Gas Business Act, and if there is a disagreement between city gas retail distributors and a local government regarding the calculation of distribution costs including appropriate cost prices, further discussions may be needed between the two parties.

In addition, with regard to the additional fair return system, which awards additional fair returns within the 3% range when local governments calculate the city gas retail distribution costs (which is to expand the distribution of city gas to unpenetrated areas), there is a possibility that the additional fair return level may be lowered while the city gas penetration rate increases due to less investment required to install additional city gas facilities.

(7) Risks Relating to Adjustment of Tariffs for Heat & Electricity Business

Regarding the heat & electricity business of CNCITY Energy Co., Ltd., as announced to be newly invested by the Company on 2 June 2023, the current revenue structure & contract terms indicate that electricity, heat and steam tariffs are partially linked to relevant costs including fuel prices. However, it should be noted that changes to such costs might not be fully reflected in the tariffs.

Consequently, if future changes in related costs are not appropriately reflected in the tariffs, it could have an adverse impact on the profitability of the heat & electricity business. While the fuel costs incurred as part of the heat & electricity business, such as LPG, LNG, and external hydrothermal, may fluctuate, there is a possibility that the tariffs for electricity, heat, and steam may not fully align with such fluctuation in fuel costs. Therefore, investors should be aware of such factors.

(8) Risks Relating to Adjustment of Tariffs for Heat & Electricity Business

Regarding the heat & electricity business of CNCITY Energy Co., Ltd., which the Company announced on 2 June 2023 to have invested in, it is important to note that LPG is one of the fuels used in operating the business. In comparison to other fuels utilized in the heat & electricity business, such as LNG, the use of LPG necessitates continuous attention and oversight due to environmental (such as relatively high carbon emissions) and safety concerns (such as risks associated with high flammability). In the future, there is a possibility of increased expenses related to strengthening the management and supervision of LPG usage in the heat & electricity business. Such potential cost increases can have a negative impact on the Company's profitability.

(9) Risks Relating to Newly Constructed Competing Facilities

Among the toll road projects that the company has invested in, there are identified possibilities of new competitive transportation facilities being the Cheonan-Nonsan Expressway, Incheon Airport Expressway, and Incheon Bridge. According to the anti-competition clause under the relevant concession agreements, all concessionaires of these toll road projects have the right to receive compensation for any decrease in their sales caused by the establishment of new competitive transportation facilities as stipulated in the concession agreement. However, it is important to note that the actual compensation may fall short of the stipulated level. Please consider this factor when making investments.

On the other hand, three investment companies in which the company has invested (two city gas businesses already invested as of 31 March 2023 and a city gas business announced as newly invested by the Company on 2 June 2023) are in city gas distribution business.

The city gas distribution business operates under government-level supervision where exclusive distribution rights for certain regions are granted to city gas companies to prevent the overlapping of investment in facilities.

As a result, there are high entry barriers for new companies, and it is unlikely that there will be any significant changes to this exclusive supply structure in the future. However, it is essential for investors to be aware that changes in the legal environment governing the company and its business, such as the City Gas Business Act, can have adverse effects on the company's operations.

The competing transportation facility that may affect the traffic volume of Incheon Grand Bridge and Incheon International Airport Expressway is Yeongjong-Cheongna Link Road (the 3rd Bridge), which is expected to begin construction in October 2021 and begin operation in December 2025.¹ The commencement of the 3rd Bridge is scheduled within the concession period of the Incheon Grand Bridge and Incheon International Airport Expressway.

Those competing transportation facilities that might impact the traffic volume of the Cheonan-Nonsan Expressway include the Pyeongtaek-Buyeo-Iksan Expressway (also known as the Seobu Naeryuk Expressway) and the Seoul-Sejong Expressway. The construction of the West Inland Expressway is anticipated to commence in 2019, with phased openings expected (the Pyeongtaek-Buyeo section is projected to open in 2024, and the Buyeo-Iksan section is expected to open in 2034)². Construction of the Seoul-Sejong Expressway began in 2016 and is planned to open in phases³. This expressway comprises the Anseong-Guri and Sejong-Anseong sections. Initially, the Anseong-Guri section was scheduled to open in 2022, and the Sejong-Anseong section in 2024⁴. However, due to the extension of the construction period, both sections are delayed by 1-2 years compared to the target schedule. The expected opening timeframe of these competitive transportation facilities falls within the period of establishing management and operation rights for the Cheonan-Nonsan Expressway.

When the competing roads begin operation, the traffic volumes of the aforementioned toll roads the Company has invested in are likely to decline. The concession agreement of each toll road project mentioned above specifies compensation for loss incurred due to newly constructed competing roads. However, there is a possibility of disagreements between the concessionaires and the relevant government authorities over the interpretation of the compensation provision in the concession agreements. In fact, Incheon Bridge Co., Ltd. submitted a request for arbitration (the “Arbitration”) to the International Chamber of Commerce (the “ICC”) to seek ICC’s declaration on the interpretation of the conditions that trigger the relevant government authority’s compensation obligation and the scope of compensation in connection with the non-compete provision, and received an arbitration award from the ICC in June 2020.

Notwithstanding the compensation provision in the concession agreements with regard to the opening of competing roads, due to differences in opinion between the relevant government authorities and concessionaires over the interpretation of the said provision, there is a possibility of not being fully compensated for the loss arising from the reduction in traffic volume caused by the opening of competing roads. Investors should be aware of the foregoing when making an investment decision.

On the other hand, two project companies the Company has invested in are in city gas distribution business. The LNG (Liquefied Natural Gas) distribution business in Korea is operated as follows: KOGAS imports and supplies LNG to local city gas retail distributors, and local distributors provide so supplied LNG to consumers through their own gas pipelines. The city gas business, one of the key industries just as the power and communication industries, requires a large, long-term initial investment (plumbing and safety management investment), and it holds a characteristic of monopoly, with the government granting approval to a single entity to distribute LNG in a certain distribution zone. Therefore, local city gas retail distributors have an exclusive right with respect to a certain region, and retail prices for consumers are determined by the approval of a local government head in each region.

The main reason for the government to grant exclusive distribution rights to certain regions is to prevent the overlapping investment in distribution facilities and to ensure the stable distribution of city gas, taking into account the characteristics of the city gas industry, which requires a great amount of initial investment in facilities including pipelines. Therefore, considering the heavily invested pipelines already in place, it is unlikely that there will be a change with respect to the government’s policy on the exclusive right and that there a new city gas company will enter the market, investors should note, however, that if the government policies change adversely, for example, by allowing multiple vendors to participate in city gas distributor’s market, the Company’s business performance and profitability may be affected.

(10) Risks Relating to Operating Expenses and Capital Expenditures

Operating expenses and capital expenditures the project companies the Company has invested in spending for the operation, maintenance or management of infrastructure facilities and related facilities may differ from original forecasts. If the actual amount of operating expenses and capital expenditures exceeds original forecasts, additional expenses may lower the return on the investment the Company made to the project companies. Operating expenses and capital expenditures may increase to the extent it becomes difficult for the project companies to fulfil debt obligations, resulting in a default of obligations. Investors should be aware that if such default occurs, the concession agreement between the project company and the relevant government authority may be terminated.

In particular, with respect to the public-private partnership projects in which the Company has invested, operating expenses and capital expenditures can increase to a level that would make it difficult for the concessionaires to fulfil their obligations stated in their concession agreements, which could lead to a default of the concessionaires. Investors should be aware that, in the event of such default, the agreement between the concessionaire and the relevant government may be terminated. Investors should be aware of this factor before making an investment decision.

In the case of the the three city gas projects (two city gas projects already invested as of 31 March 2023 and one city gas project announced to be newly invested by the Company on 2 June 2023) that the Company has invested in, the fuel costs, operating expenses, and non-operating expenses of city gas retail distributors are included in the city gas retail price to be paid by end users according to the City Gas Distribution Costs Calculation Standards. If there is a disagreement regarding the calculation of distribution costs between the two project companies and the local government supervising the city gas business, which may lead to unfavorable results for the project companies such as certain costs being excluded from the distribution costs, the Company's profitability may be adversely affected. In addition, given that the operating expenses and capital expenditures for non-core businesses (which are irrelevant to the city gas distribution business) are not included in the distribution costs, the non-core business-related operating expenses and capital expenditures in excess of the original forecast may have a negative impact on the return of the two project companies. However, taking into account that there are detailed calculation criteria for the city gas distribution costs and that the costs are required to be verified by an independent accounting firm, it is not highly likely to have a disagreement with local governments. Also, considering that the non-core businesses only take up a small part of both project companies' businesses, the risks related to operating expenses and capital expenditures for the city gas business are expected to be limited.

B. Company Risks

(1) Risks Relating to the Project Companies

Investors to the Company should be aware that the project companies' ability related to cash flow generation, repayment of debts, and payment of dividends may be influenced by factors beyond the control of the Company and this may affect the profitability of the Company. The book value of the invested assets in the project companies plus interest receivables as of 31 March 2023 is KRW 3.0 trillion in aggregate, of which senior loans, subordinated loans, equity securities and interest receivables respectively make up 1.9%, 54.1%, 19.0% and 25.0% (proportional to the book value of the total investments and receivable interest). The subordinated loans and equity securities which are subordinated in the repayment priority, take up a large portion of the Company's total investments. Therefore, investors should be aware that delay in repayment of the investments may have an adverse effect on the likelihood of the full collection of the invested assets within the operating periods of the project companies.

The project companies in which the Company has invested, have significant debts owed to the Company and other lenders. Whether each project company fulfills its liabilities and repays its debts is dependent entirely upon the cash flow generated by such project company.

The operating expenses and/or capital expenditure spent by the project companies for the operation, maintenance, and management of infrastructure and related facilities may exceed the forecast, and may have an adverse effect on the cash flow of the project companies which may lead to a lower rate of investment return of the Company.

Also, the project companies pay interests on subordinated loans or interests and loan principal on senior loans that have become due in accordance with the repayment schedule, before paying dividends. The project companies may reserve funds in a debt service account and there may be additional restrictions on the payment of subordinated loan principal and interests or dividend payout.

The interests on the floating senior loans payable by the project companies may increase if the market interest rate rises. This may decrease the principal and interests or dividends to be received by the Company. If the cash flow of the project companies is weakened on grounds beyond the control of the Company, or if the project companies fail to fulfill the conditions of financing agreements, they may be required to refinance all or part of the debt or raise additional capital. Also, if refinancing or additional funding cannot be obtained, the project companies may default. In turn, the relevant creditors may declare an event of default on the project companies and the value of the Company's investments in the project companies may also decrease.

Therefore, the investors should be aware that delays in the repayment period may have an adverse effect on the collection of investments within the business operating period.

(2) Risk Associated with Influence in Decision Making within the Project Companies

The Company is investing in a total of 18 infrastructure projects (17 projects in which the Company has already invested as of 31 March 2023, and a project in which the Company announced on 2 June 2023 that it had made its investment). The Company has provided debt financing and invested in shares of the entities that develop and/or operate infrastructure businesses or corporate entities established with the purpose of investing in the entities that develop and/or operate infrastructure businesses. Therefore, the Company retains limited management control of such entities, and these entities may have objectives different from those of the Company. The fact that the Company is unable to exercise managerial control over these entities' business, strategy, and policy may adversely impact the Company's efforts to generate cash and pay distributions.

Further, there are other shareholders in some of the project companies in which the Company has invested, and such shareholders may have investment objectives different from those of the Company. Therefore, the Company may exercise control over certain matters, but the approval of the other shareholders or directors appointed by those shareholders may be required in other circumstances.

In relation to the above, the Company may not be able to exercise significant control over the business, dividend payouts, interest payments and other important decisions of the project companies. Investors should be aware of the above factors.

(3) Risks Relating to Interest Rate Increase

The revolving credit facility and the short-term bond facility the Company has committed to are floating-rate debts. Therefore, in a rising interest rate market, the interest the Company needs to pay with regard to these debt facilities may increase, which in turn may adversely affect the Company's financial conditions.

Also, some of the project companies in which the Company has invested have floating interest rate senior loans. Under the terms of such senior loans, the project companies are required to pay the interest and principal of the senior loans prior to making dividend or subordinated debt interest payments. In a rising interest rate market, the project companies would be required to pay higher interest rates on the senior loans, which may reduce the amount payable to the Company as dividends or interest on subordinated loans.

(4) Relating to the Operation of the Project Companies

In April 2019, BNCT Co., Ltd. ("BNCT"), the concessionaire of the Busan New Port Phase 2-3 Project ("BNP 2-3"), in which the Company invested, executed an agreement with the new lenders to make a partial repayment to existing lenders and to make new external borrowings in order to increase the capacity of the handling volume and improve its liquidity. Following the transaction, the principal amount of investment made by the Company in BNCT decreased from KRW 304.0 billion (subordinated loan I KRW 193.0 billion, subordinated loan II KRW 44.6 billion, equity securities KRW 66.4 billion) to KRW 259.4 billion (subordinated loan KRW 193 billion, equity securities KRW 66.4 billion), and by utilizing a part of the new external loans to purchase additional equipment, BNCT increased BNP 2-3's annual maximum capacity from 2.5 million TEUs to 3.0 million TEUs.

Consequently, as of 31 March 2023, the Company invests KRW 193 billion and 66.4 billion in subordinated loan and equity securities of BNCT, respectively, and accrued interest in connection with the subordinated loan amount to KRW 475.6 billion.

Investors should be aware that BNCT is an asset under a concession agreement which does not include MRG and therefore, even if its operating performance deteriorates, BNCT would not receive any subsidy payment from the relevant government authority.

Three city gas projects (two projects in which the Company has already invested as of 31 March 2023, and a project in which the Company announced on 2 June 2023 that it had made its investment) that the Company has invested in are in city gas distribution business. The LNG (Liquefied Natural Gas) distribution business in Korea is operated as follows: KOGAS imports and supplies LNG to local city gas retail distributors, and local retail distributors provide and sell so supplied LNG to end users through their own gas pipelines.

City gas retail distributors secure LNG, the main fuel for the city gas distribution, through a long-term supply and demand agreement with KOGAS. Currently, the fuel costs, operating expenses, and non-operating expenses of city gas retail distributors are added to the city gas retail price to be paid by end users according to the City Gas Distribution Costs Calculation Standards. However, if changes to the policies related to the addition of these costs are applied unfavorably for the city gas retail distributors in which the Company has invested directly and/or indirectly, this could adversely affect the Company's profitability.

If the city gas retail price or city gas demand in the area in which city gas retail distributors distribute city gas (the "Distribution Zone") falls, it could have a negative impact on the profitability of those retail distributors. Given that the demand for city gas is subject to several external variables, including population growth, economic growth rate, temperature, and fuel competitiveness, the accurate forecast thereof is difficult. A decrease in the retail price or city gas demand in the Distribution Zone of the city gas retail distributors, in which the Company has invested directly and/or indirectly, may adversely affect the Company's profitability.

City gas retail distributors may generate surplus revenue with sales higher than the distribution volume due to the meter gain effect from the difference between the actual distribution volume and the measured sales volume of city gas. These measurement errors are caused by gas characteristics, technical errors, and the time difference between meter readings. If these measurements are modified and consequently the yield drops due to the government's policy or other reasons, it can lead to a decrease in the profits of the city gas retail distributors in which the Company has invested.

Lastly, in respect of the heat & electricity business of CNCITY Energy Co., Ltd., which was announced on 2 June 2023 by the Company as a new investment, reliance on top 5 clients ("Key Clients") is high in terms of sales of steam for industrial use as they constitute approximately 91% of total steam sales thereof. Thus, in the case where the Key Clients reduce their use of steam or their use of steam is decreased due to an incident such as a fire, there will be a substantial negative effect on the steam sales within the heat & electricity business.

The Company has invested in BNCT, which operates and manages BNP 2-3, a container port in Busan. BNCT commenced its operation in January 2012 and the amount of investment made by the Company in BNCT is KRW 259.4 billion as of 31 March 2023, which is composed of the subordinated loan extended to the project company in the amount of KRW 193.0 billion and equity securities in the amount of KRW 66.4 billion.

In April 2019, in order to increase its capacity to handle growing container volume in the future and improve liquidity, BNCT entered into an agreement with new lenders to repay a part of existing loans and raise new external loans. As a result of this refinancing, the principal amount of investment made by the Company decreased from KRW 304.0 billion (subordinated loan I KRW 193.0 billion, subordinated loan II KRW 44.6 billion, equity securities KRW 66.4 billion) to KRW 259.4 billion (subordinated loan KRW 193 billion, equity securities KRW 66.4 billion). By utilizing a part of the new external loans to purchase additional equipment, BNCT increased BNP 2-3's annual maximum capacity from 2.5 million TEUs to 3.0 million TEUs.

[Summary of BNP 2-3]

- Terminal operation has commenced in January 2012
- Concession period of 28 years and 3 months (expires in April 2040)

① Volume Performance

BNCT has retained CMA CGM which is the parent company of BNCT's shareholder, Terminal Link, as the main customer. BNCT provides services by entering into terminal service agreement with each shipping company. Handling volumes classified as controlled service by CMA CGM under the Terminal Service Agreement between CMA CGM and BNCT are required to call at BNCT. This agreement is effective until BNCT's concession expires.

CMA CGM is a member of Ocean Alliance, a global shipping alliance officially established on 1 April 2017. Ocean Alliance currently consists of CMA CGM, APL, COSCO, Evergreen, and OOCL, and other shipping companies of Ocean Alliance which are not required to call at BNCT may also be prone to call at BNCT for cost reduction and convenience.

However, the shipping companies of Ocean Alliance, including CMA CGM, do not guarantee a specified container volume to BNCT, and therefore, if the container volume of CMA CGM and Ocean Alliance decreases in the future, it may have an adverse impact on the performance of BNCT.

Also, the shipping industry is affected by macroeconomics and global trade dynamics. Decreases in global container volume caused by economic recession or protective trade policies, or changes in the environment such as a decrease in the general export and trade volume in Korea, may have an adverse effect on the performance of BNCT.

BNCT's total handling volume for 2022 increased by 8.8% compared to the previous year, recording 2.69 million TEUs. Revenue improved by 14.5% over the previous year to KRW 167.0 billion due to an increase in the handling volume, adjustment of tariff, and an increase in ancillary revenue, and EBITDA improved by 12.4% over the previous year to KRW 84.5 billion due to an increase in revenue.

The total handling volume of BNCT during the first quarter of 2023 increased by 5.8% over the corresponding period of the previous year to 710,000 TEUs, and revenue improved by 8.4% over the previous year to KRW 41.9 billion due to an increase in the handling volume. EBITDA also improved by 8.0% over the corresponding period of the previous year to KRW 20.6 billion due to an increase in revenue.

② Revenue/TEU

The tariff of BNCT and Busan New Port may change in response to various factors such as economic conditions, supply and demand of containers in Busan New Port, and domestic or overseas competition.

In April 2017, tariffs for some services were adjusted due to the reorganization of shipping alliances, and the average revenue/TEU of BNCT (calculated by dividing the total revenue by the handling volume) recorded an annual growth of 3.5% over the past nine years from 2013 to 2022. The average revenue/TEU may vary depending on various factors, including the fare adjustment rates, the volume mix (transshipment, import/export, etc.), container type, and additional income.

③ Subordinated Loans

As of 31 March 2023, the principal of the subordinated loans extended to BNCT is KRW 193.0 billion and the unpaid interest is KRW 475.6 billion, amounting to a total subordinated loan (including unpaid interest) of KRW 668.6 billion.

In April 2019, BNCT entered into an agreement with new lenders to repay a part of existing loans and raise new external loans. As a result of this refinancing, the Company received the principal of subordinated loan II (KRW 44.6 billion) and the entire amount of deferred interest (KRW 49.2 billion). Therefore, upon the conclusion of the refinancing, the principal of subordinated loans to BNCT by the Company decreased from KRW 237.6 billion (subordinated loan I KRW 193.0 billion, subordinated loan II KRW 44.6 billion) to KRW 193.0 billion.

On 27 September 2022, the board of directors of BNCT adopted a resolution approving a partial amendment of the terms of the subordinated loan agreement for the purpose of improving the management environment and operating activities of BNCT. And on 28 September 2022, BNCT and the Company, the lender of the subordinated loan of BNCT, upon mutual agreement, entered into an amended subordinated loan agreement. As a result, from 1 October 2022, the method of interest with respect to the interest applied to the loan principal and accrued interest shall change from compounded interest to simple interest, while no change is made in the interest rate (12 % per annum), interest payment intervals (quarterly), the size of the loan principal (KRW 193.0 billion), etc.

BNCT is an asset with a concession agreement that does not have MRG and therefore, even if the sales fall due to poor performance and/or freeze or decrease in tariffs, BNCT would not receive any subsidy payment from the relevant government authority. Weakened sales may lead to low liquidity of BNCT and may increase the deferred interests on the subordinated loan (wholly owed to the Company). If this situation persists, losses may occur as the bad debt expenses could be recognized for the unpaid interests and the principal of the BNCT's Subordinated Loan and a loss in equity valuation may occur. Also, there is the possibility of the Company not receiving the outstanding principal of the subordinated loan and equity investment (KRW 66.4 billion) by the end of the concession period of BNCT.

Meanwhile, out of a total of 13 toll road businesses the Company has invested in, the concessionaries of seven toll road projects (excluding the Incheon International Airport Expressway, Cheonan-Nonsan Expressway, Woomyunsan Tunnel, Yongin-Seoul Expressway, Busan New Port 2nd Rear Road and Incheon-Gimpo Expressway projects) are entitled to receive the government subsidy from the relevant government authority in accordance with the concession agreement. The subsidy includes the compensation for the shortfall of toll revenue subject to traffic volume (minimum revenue guarantee), investment cost compensation and toll-freeze compensation. The revenue of these project companies is dependent on the toll of the relevant roads apart from the income from the minimum revenue guarantee. In some cases, the income of these concessionaires is partially dependent on government subsidies provided in accordance with the concession agreement, but in most cases, it is mainly dependent on the income of toll fees of each road operated.

Pursuant to the concession agreement, the toll is determined by external factors such as the overall Korean economy, negative consumer perception of toll raise, inflation rate and traffic volume. Relevant government authorities may limit raises in toll fares or make requests to lower toll fares through restructuring or refinancing.

Traffic volume and toll revenue are affected by various factors including the following.

- Toll fare
- Oil price
- Vehicle price and vehicle maintenance costs
- Types of vehicles using toll roads (including bridges and tunnels)
- Population increase, increase in vehicle ownership, increase in licensed drivers
- Natural disasters such as flood, earthquake and forest fire
- Decline in traffic demand due to outbreak of diseases such as epidemic or pandemic
- Unfavorable weather conditions that negatively affect traffic volume, such as heavy snow, fog and rain
- Environmental regulations limiting the use of vehicles
- The quality and accessibility of toll roads compared to other competitive transportation means such as trains or other roads
- Limits on the number of vehicles efficiently using toll roads during particular periods
- Overall economic conditions

If the rate of traffic volume increase falls due to such factors, the growth rate of the Company's revenue may fall or slow down, adversely affecting the Company's business and financial conditions.

The toll road business of the Company can be classified by whether there is a minimum revenue guarantee (or other guarantees provided by the relevant government authorities following restructuring as applicable, collectively referred to as “guarantee”), actual operating performance compared to the guarantee, and the period of guarantee compared to the concession period. The characteristics and risk factors of each classification are as follows.

• Project without Guarantee Provided by the Relevant Government Authority

- Currently, the Cheonan-Nonsan Expressway, Incheon International Airport Expressway, Woomyunsan Tunnel, Yongin-Seoul Expressway, and Busan New Port 2nd Rear Road Projects do not receive a revenue guarantee from their relevant government authorities. After the project restructuring was completed in January 2016, the Woomyunsan Tunnel project no longer has the MRG provision. Instead, the revenue partitioning structure was introduced. Under the revenue partitioning structure, the agreed amount from the actual toll revenue is reserved upfront in the disposable income account in order to retrieve the investment principals invested by the Company and relevant interest income prior to other payments. Currently, the traffic performance is sufficient to meet the expected profit. However, in case the traffic performance deteriorates and the disposable income account balance becomes insufficient, the Company may not be able to retrieve a portion of the investment principals or interests. The Cheonan-Nonsan Expressway, the Incheon International Airport Expressway and Yongin-Seoul Expressway projects initially had MRG by the relevant government authority, but it ended in 2022, 2020 and 2019, respectively. There is no financial support from relevant government authorities related to sales or expenses for the Busan New Port 2nd Rear Road project.

• Project with Guarantee Provided by the Relevant Government Authority Which Currently Has Operation (toll) Performance Exceeding Guaranteed Level

- The following projects have been provided with a guarantee from their relevant government authorities but have operating performance exceeding the respective guarantee level (based on 2021 results): Machang Bridge and Seoul-Chuncheon Highway. These project companies are generating increased revenues based on the operating performance exceeding the guarantee levels. However, as a decrease in operating performance may lead to an immediate reduction in the cash flow of these project companies, the guarantees provided by the relevant government authorities do not guarantee the current estimated values of the investments in these project companies.

• Project with Guarantee Provided by Relevant Government Authority, Triggering the Payment under Guarantee due to Operating Performance Short of Minimum Revenue Guarantee Level, for which Guarantee Expires During Concession Period

- The projects with guarantees provided by the relevant government authority which has triggered the payments under the guarantees due to operating performance short of the minimum revenue guarantee level (based on 2021 results) but with the guarantee expiring during the concession period, are the Incheon Grand Bridge project. The guarantee provided by the relevant government authority acts as the downside protection on the revenue and cash flow of the project company, but if its operating performance does not improve significantly in the future, its revenue may fall considerably after the guarantee period expires. Expiration of the guarantee period may have an adverse effect on the Company's revenue and cash flow compared to the guarantee period.

• Project with Guarantee Provided by Relevant Government Authority, Triggering the Payment under Guarantee due to Operating Performance Short of Minimum Revenue Guarantee Level, for which Guarantee Covers Entire Concession Period

- The projects with guarantees provided by the relevant government authorities which have triggered payments under the guarantees due to operating performance short of the minimum revenue guarantee level (based on 2021 results), with the guarantee covering the entire concession period are the Baekyang Tunnel, Soojungsan Tunnel, Kwangju Second Beltway Section 1 and Kwangju Second Beltway Section 3-1 projects. The three project companies have operating performance short of their guarantee levels, and currently receive payments under the respective guarantees. Since the payments under the guarantees provided by the relevant government authorities cover the entire concession periods, decreases in operating performance (compared to other toll road project companies) may not affect the Company's revenue and cash flow to the extent the other toll road project companies may affect. However, in order to meet the estimated return on investment, these project companies must continue to rely on the relevant government authorities' subsidy payments throughout their entire concession periods, and this may pose the Company with relevant risks.

On the other hand, three project companies among the Company's investment portfolio two city gas businesses already invested as of 31 March 2023 and a city gas business announced as a new investment on 2 June 2023) are in the city gas distribution business. The LNG (Liquefied Natural Gas) distribution business in Korea is operated as follows: KOGAS imports and supplies LNG to local city gas retail distributors, and local retail distributors provide and sell so supplied LNG to end users through their own gas pipelines.

1. Risks relating to change of costs pass-through policies regarding city gas retail distribution costs

City gas retail distributors secure LNG, the main fuel for the city gas distribution, through a long-term supply and demand agreement with KOGAS. Currently, the fuel costs, operating expenses, and non-operating expenses of city gas retail distributors are added to the city gas retail price to be paid by end users according to the City Gas Distribution Costs Calculation Standards. However, if changes to the policies related to the addition of these costs are applied unfavorably for the city gas retail distributors in which the Company has invested directly and/or indirectly, this could adversely affect the Company's profitability.

2. Risks relating to a decline in city gas demand

If the city gas retail price or city gas demand in the area in which city gas retail distributors distribute city gas (the "Distribution Zone") falls, it could have a negative impact on the profitability of those retail distributors. Given that the demand for city gas is subject to several external variables, including population growth, economic growth rate, temperature, and fuel competitiveness, the accurate forecast thereof is difficult. A decrease in the retail price or city gas demand in the Distribution Zone of the city gas retail distributors, in which the Company has invested directly or indirectly, may adversely affect the Company's profitability.

City gas retail distributors may generate surplus revenue with sales higher than the distribution volume due to the meter gain effect from the difference between the actual distribution volume and the measured sales volume of city gas. These measurement errors are caused by gas characteristics, technical errors, and the time difference between meter readings. If these measurements are modified and consequently the yield drops due to the government's policy or other reasons, it can lead to a decrease in the profits of the city gas retail distributors in which the Company has invested.

the Key Clients reduce their use of steam or their use of steam is decreased due to an incident such as a fire, there will be a substantial negative effect on the steam sales within the heat & electricity business.

(5) Risks Relating to Distribution Payout

There has been an ongoing disbursement of cash due to the payment of distribution in order to maintain stable investment return for shareholders and to qualify for corporate tax exemption (applied if 90% or more of the Company's distributable income is paid as distributions). However, the Company has a need for liquidity due to the timing mismatch between the cash inflow and the recognition of revenue in accounting. As of 31 March 2023, the Company's investments in subordinated loans and equity securities of the project companies, of which associated cash inflows are relatively deferred to the late part of the concession periods of the project companies, account for 73.1% of the Company's total investment amount. Therefore, in case the level of cash outflow resulting from the payment of distribution is raised, the Company's financial soundness may deteriorate.

There has been an ongoing disbursement of cash due to the payment of distributions in order to maintain stable investment returns for shareholders and also to qualify for a deduction of the taxable income pursuant to Article 51-2 of the Korean Corporate Tax Act (in the event 90% or more of distributable income is paid as distributions, the amount of distribution is deducted from the taxable income of the applicable fiscal year). Pursuant to the FSCMA and also in accordance with the Company's AOI, the Company may pay distributions to shareholders in the form of distributions and/or over-distributions of profits, in which case there is a possibility that the distributions may be made in excess of the Company's net income in the relevant fiscal period in order to maintain shareholder value. Also, depending on the Company's financial conditions, the Company may provide distributions to shareholders in the form of new shares instead of payment in cash up to the amount of the profit distributions.

The following is the Company's historical distribution payouts per share.

The Company's distributions are derived from the interest income and dividend income from the loans and equity securities as investments in the project companies. The Company's interest income was 68.9% (the average for the last three years) of the Company's revenue. Recurring dividend income has been generated since 2015 from New Airport Hiway Co., Ltd., Soojungsan Investment Co., Ltd., Cheonan-Nonsan Expressway Co., Ltd., Kwangju Ring Road Co., Ltd. and Woomyunsan Infraway Co., Ltd. Interest income, a major source of the Company's revenue, is recognized according to the principle of accrual accounting. However, in the case of some project companies, cash inflow is delayed, which results in a timing mismatch between the cashflow from interest income and the recognition of interest income in accounting. Therefore, the Company's need for liquidity may increase and the financial burden may rise.

Cash outflow from the payment of distribution is expected to continue in the future. As of 31 March 2023, given that the Company's investments in subordinated loans and equity securities of the project companies, of which associated cash inflows are relatively deferred to the late part of the concession periods of the project companies, account for 73.1% of the Company's total investment amount. Therefore, if the size of cash outflow from the payment of the Company's distribution increases, the Company's financial soundness may deteriorate.

(6) Risks Relating to Payment Obligation by Relevant Government Authorities, Other Government Authorities and Local Governments

Among the total of 18 projects in which the Company has invested (17 projects in which the Company has already invested as of 31 March 2023, and a project in which the Company announced on 2 June 2023 that it had made its investment), 15 project companies that the Company has invested in are concessionaires in public-private partnerships based on concession agreements with relevant government authorities. The concession agreements include the payment obligations by the relevant government authorities to pay a certain required amount to the concessionaires. However, the payment obligation may be unfulfilled or delayed due to the government policy, financial difficulty of the relevant government authority or other reasons during the deliberation or execution of the budget of the relevant government authority. If the payment obligation of the relevant government authority or other government authorities is unfulfilled, the operating performance and the financial condition of the project company which has not received the required amount may be adversely affected, weakening the project company's capability to repay its debts. This may result in reduced interest payments, principal repayment and dividends that the Company receive from the project company and may have an adverse impact on the Company's business and financial status.

The three project companies (two city gas projects already invested as of 31 March 2023 and one city gas project announced as a new investment on 2 June 2023) that the Company has invested in have been establishing city gas pipeline networks in accordance with the MOU entered into between relevant local governments pursuant to Article 19-3 of the City Gas Business Act. In addition, under the MOU signed with the relevant government authority or its ordinance, the relevant government authority might be required to make a support payment in connection with the above city gas pipeline network. However, the payment obligation may be unfulfilled or delayed due to the government policy due to financial difficulty of the relevant government authority or other reasons during the deliberation or execution of the budget of the relevant government authority.

The concession agreements outline the obligations that each party must fulfill. For relevant payment obligations, refer to Section A. Business Risks (1) Risks Relating to Payment Obligation by Relevant Government Authorities and Other Government Authorities.

Previously, in relation to the Woomyunsan Tunnel, Kwangju Second Beltway Section 1 and Machang Bridge projects, the relevant government authorities have refused to pay the MRG and toll-freeze compensation. The disputes with the relevant government authorities were resolved by negotiating a project restructuring with the objective of preserving the value of the Company's investments.

Three project companies (two city gas projects already invested as of 31 March 2023 and one city gas project announced as a new investment on 2 June 2023) that the Company has invested in have been establishing city gas pipeline networks in accordance with the MOU entered into between relevant local governments pursuant to Article 19-3 of the City Gas Business Act.

In addition, under the MOU signed with the relevant government authority or its ordinance, the relevant government authority might be required to make a support payment in connection with the above city gas pipeline network. However, the payment obligation may be unfulfilled or delayed due to the government policy, financial difficulty of the relevant government authority or other reasons during the deliberation or execution of budget of the relevant government authority. However, given that the Company will not be obligated to make additional investments in the case where these support payments are not paid by relevant government authorities, such risk is rather limited.

(7) Risks Relating to Assets under Construction

The Company may decide to invest in infrastructure assets under construction, and construction of large scale infrastructure assets such as toll roads, bridges, tunnels, and rails may involve potential risk factors including natural disasters, change of design and opposition of special interest groups such as religious or environmental organizations.

While predominant risks may and can be transferred to construction companies and/or relevant government authorities, the aforementioned risks may cause construction delays, loss of profits or cost overrun, which may negatively influence the Company's investment value. In particular, infrastructure facilities under construction in which the Company invests may not be completed on schedule due to natural disasters such as typhoons or floods, which may lead to decreased profits, increased maintenance costs and increased construction or reconstruction expenses.

In this case, concessionaires of such infrastructure assets may not be able to retrieve all related losses or damages through insurance policies. Additionally, in the event that the funding of such infrastructure facilities involves senior lending, senior lenders generally and customarily secure the first priority pledge against such insurance policy.

In the event that an infrastructure asset is not completed as planned, the relevant concessionaire in which the Company invested may be obliged to pay the relevant government authority related compensation for damages. Although the construction company customarily bears the obligation to compensate the concessionaire for losses or damages resulting from construction delays, such compensation may not sufficiently cover all of the concessionaire's obligations. Therefore, the concessionaire may be required to make a significant amount of additional payments due to construction delays.

As for Dongbuk Light Rail Transit, which is currently under construction, in case there are delays in construction after obtaining permits is completed and the construction has begun, five construction companies, including the lead construction company Hyundai Engineering Co. Ltd., jointly bear obligations to complete the construction within the due to the date on a Fixed Price & Lump Sum Turn-key Basis. They also bear the responsibilities to jointly compensate the concessionaire for losses resulting from delays in construction and budget increase. Notwithstanding such obligations by the construction companies, they may fail to fulfil their obligations due to various reasons including a downgrade of their credit ratings, and the failure to fulfil their obligations could result in a loss to the concessionaire.

Investors should be aware of the aforementioned risks when making an investment decision.

(8) Risks Relating to Debt

The Company may borrow or issue bonds up to the amount equal to 30% of the Company's share capital under Article 41-5(1) of the PPP Act (the "borrowing capacity"). Based on the nonconsolidated financial statements as of 31 March 2023, the Company's outstanding debt balance is approximately KRW 540.3 billion (principal amount), which consists of KRW 200 billion of fixed-rate corporate bonds, KRW 182.3 billion drawn from the revolving credit facility with the facility size of KRW 250 billion and KRW 158.0 billion drawn from the short-term bond facility with the facility size of KRW 284.6 billion.

KRW 100 billion out of the KRW 200 billion fixed rate corporate bonds issued by the Company matured on 12 June 2023 (as 11 June 2023 is a national holiday, the maturity date was adjusted to 12 June 2023). The Company issued on 12 June 2023 a new 5-year, fixed-rate bond of the same size which leads the Company to maintain the total outstanding amount of corporate bonds as KRW 200 billion.

The Company may only borrow or issue bonds up to the amount equal to 30% of the Company's share capital, pursuant to Article 41-5(1) of the PPP Act, and the Company's borrowing limit as of 31 March 2023 is KRW 734.6 billion. (KRW 0.081 billion rounded off from KRW 734.681 billion). In case the Company completes the Offering, the Company's share capital would increase by KRW 358.5 billion (the Offering proceed of KRW 361.0 billion less the anticipated issuance cost of KRW 2.5 billion), and the Company's borrowing limit would then increase by KRW ~107.6 billion (30% of KRW 358.5 billion) to KRW 842.2 billion (rounded off to the nearest KRW tenth billion) accordingly.

Currently, the revolving credit facility and short-term bonds that the Company may withdraw or issue amount to KRW 378.6 billion, which indicates that the financial liquidity of the Company is adequate. However, please be advised that if the Company's outstanding debt reaches the borrowing limit due to the investment commitments in relation to the public-private partnership of the Dongbuk Light Rail Transit and Incheon-Gimpo Expressway, the investment commitment that the Company announced on 2 June 2023 and prospective new investments, the Company may be exposed to liquidity risks.

① An investment and financing collective investment vehicle may borrow or issue bonds for the purposes of working capital and temporary investment subject to the following restrictions and the ratio set out in the Enforcement Decree; provided that when the investment and financing collective investment vehicle borrows or issues bonds for working capital purposes, it shall obtain the approval of the general stockholders' meeting or the general beneficiaries' meeting.

(9) Risks Relating to Lawsuits

-Field investigation: In May 2020, the Ministry of Employment and Labor investigated approximately 50 entities that operate toll roads under public-private partnership by placing labor inspectors to determine whether outsourcing service workers performing road management/maintenance, toll collection or patrol would constitute 'illegal temporary work placement' under the Act on the Protection, etc. of Temporary Agency Workers. According to the investigation results, 11 of the 12 toll road projects that the Company invested in at the time of the investigation were reported to be not engaged in an illegal dispatch. As for the Machang Bridge project, there was an administrative order that some employees of an outsourcing service company should be directly hired by Machang Bridge Co., Ltd., to which such employees originally belonged, and its compliance with such order has been fully executed.

With respect to the above investigation, Cheonan-Nonsan Expressway Co., Ltd., one of the toll road projects in which the Company has invested, was notified by the Ministry of Employment and Labor that it was not engaged in an illegal dispatch, however, the workers of the corporation which have signed a toll collection service agreement with Cheonan-Nonsan Expressway Co. Ltd. filed lawsuits against Cheonan-Nonsan Expressway Co. Ltd., in February 2020 and March 2020, seeking for a declaratory judgment as to the legal status of workers and unpaid salary difference payments. In its judgement on 8 February 2023, the trial court ruled that in respect of the legal status of workers, Cheonan-Nonsan Expressway Co., Ltd. has the obligation to directly employ the workers, while in respect of the case seeking unpaid salary difference payments, the trial court found that Cheonan-Nonsan Expressway Co., Ltd. has no obligation to pay such salary difference. After the trial court decisions, Cheonan-Nonsan Expressway Co., Ltd. and workers of the corporation that signed the toll collection service agreement filed their respective appeals with respect to the portions of the trial court decisions which were unfavourable to them, and the appeal cases are currently pending at the High Court. At present, it is difficult to predict the outcome of the Cheonan-Nonsan Expressway Co., Ltd.'s lawsuits, but investors must be advised that there is a possibility that the outcomes of the litigations may come out to be unfavourable to the project companies which may have an adverse impact on the Company.

In addition, there is a possibility that additional legal disputes may arise with the project companies invested by the Company, which may adversely affect the financial structure of the project companies, and investors must be aware of it.

(10) Risk Related to Uncertainty in Financing

The Company contemplates securing and financing its future investments by raising additional capital and/or incurring additional debt. However, investors should be aware that the Company's plans for financing may encounter difficulties due to the following reasons.

① Due to the difficulty in predicting the effectiveness, timing, and size of future investments, it may be difficult to secure financing in favourable terms within a short period of time.

② According to the PPP Act, the debt-to-share capital ratio may not exceed 30% and the loan may only be used for making investments and funding operating costs.

③ If the Company maintains the current distribution policy of distributing the greater of the distributable income and the taxable income, surplus funds available for investment may be reduced.

④ The Company may not be able to issue the required number of shares or corporate bonds due to time constraints or the lack of investor demand.

⑤ Borrowing under favorable terms may be difficult due to market conditions or negative forecasts of the Company's businesses, and the failure to secure capital may hinder successful execution of the Company's investment strategies.

(11) Risks Relating to Change of the Manager

Pursuant to the terms of the asset management agreement between the Company and the Manager amended on 28 February 2019, the Company may only terminate the asset management agreement with a majority approval of the total number of issued and outstanding shares followed by a 90 days' prior written notice. The replacement of the Manager must be approved by a majority of the total number of issued and outstanding shares at the shareholders' meeting pursuant to the Company's AOI.

In the event of a resolution at the shareholder's meeting for the replacement of the Manager, dissenting shareholders may request the Company to purchase their shares. Also, according to the Company's credit facility agreement entered into by the Company, in order to replace the Manager, a prior written consent by a proxy bank is required.

Also, if the Company terminates the asset management agreement for a reason other than the Manager's intentional and illegal act, gross negligence, or substandard performance (determined by the terms of the asset management agreement) for at least 14 quarters out of 16 consecutive quarters, the Company must pay the Manager a penalty equal to the sum of the asset management fees for 4 quarters prior to the termination. As a result, please be advised that terminating the asset management agreement with the Manager may incur a significant amount of expense.

(12) Risks Relating to Restrictions on Merger and Reverse Merger

Pursuant to the FSCMA, the Company is only permitted to merge or to be merged with investment companies that have the same corporate director. This means that there is only a limited pool of potential companies which the Company may merge with. Therefore, the synergy effect arising from a merger would be limited. Further, the value of the Company's investment portfolio may not be increased and the opportunity to increase the shareholders' investment value following relevant transactions may be lost.

(13) Risks Relating to Dissolution of Investment Entity

Pursuant to Article 253(1)(iv) of the FSCMA, portfolio companies' registration may be revoked by the FSC if the net asset falls below KRW 5 billion and such state lasts for 3 months. In such an event, please note that the Company may be dissolved without the consent of the investors.

Article 253 (De-Registration of Collective Investment Vehicle)

① In any of the following circumstances, the FSC may deregister a collective investment vehicle; provided that the FSC shall de-register the collective investment vehicle if an event set forth in subparagraph 3 occurs:

4. Where the NAV of the investment company falls below of the minimum net assets prescribed in Article 194(2)(vii) for not less than three months

② Promoters who intend to incorporate an investment company shall prepare articles of incorporation which shall state the following matters, on which all promoters shall print their names and affix their seals or signatures

7. Minimum amount of net assets (referring to the amount computed by subtracting liabilities from assets) that the investment company is required to maintain (hereinafter referred to as "minimum net assets")

(14) Risks Relating to Distribution of CNCITY Energy Co., Ltd.

Through the investment made in CNCITY Energy Co., Ltd., as announced on 2 June 2023, the Company now holds Class 1 preferred stocks that entitle the Company to receive dividends equivalent to an annual average yield of 6% in priority. Unlike bonds or borrowings, the payment of dividends is subject to the availability of surplus cash or profits in accordance with the Commercial Code of Korea. In the event that CNCITY Energy Co., Ltd. does not have sufficient surplus cash or available profits for dividend distribution, there is a possibility that dividends may not be paid or their payment may be delayed.

(15) Other Company Risks

On 2 June 2023, the Company entered into a share purchase agreement to acquire a total of 957,437 shares of CNCITY Energy Co., Ltd. from the existing shareholders of CNCITY Energy Co., Ltd. Additionally, the Company acquired all 1,250,000 newly issued shares of CNCITY Energy Co., Ltd. through the execution of a new subscription agreement with CNCITY Energy Co., Ltd.

It is important to note that both the aforementioned share purchase agreement and new stock subscription agreement are interdependent. In the event that one of the contracts is not executed or is canceled, there is a possibility that the execution of the other contract may also be affected.

In the event that the Company does not fulfill its obligations to close the transaction even though the conditions precedent have been satisfied or exempted or if there is a significant negative impact on the Company, each of the above agreement may be cancelled and the Company may be held liable for damages under such circumstances. Furthermore, if the Company defaults on or delays its payment obligations specified in the aforementioned agreements, it will be required to pay delay damages at an annual rate of 15% from the day following the due date until the actual payment date.

Also, it should be noted that under each of the aforementioned agreements, the seller or CNCITY Energy Co., Ltd. may be held liable for damages even after the transaction has been completed, in the event of violations of representations and warranties (which expire after a certain duration) or breaches of covenants and/or other obligations. However, it is important for investors to consider that the execution of such liability for damages may prove to be challenging, depending on the financial capacity of the seller or CNCITY Energy Co., Ltd.

Furthermore, with regard to the heat & electricity business of CNCITY Energy Co., Ltd., if a project aimed at improving the future business environment or transitioning to an alternative business similar to the heat & electricity sector is successfully implemented, it is anticipated that the profitability of CNCITY Energy Co., Ltd. may improve. However, the Company may need to allocate additional funds in relation to this project. Nevertheless, the Company retains the ability to influence the progress of these projects by exercising its right to consent to capital expenditures and borrowings above a certain threshold amount to be carried out by CNCITY Energy Co., Ltd.

C. Other Risks

(1) Risk of Decrease in Share Price

The share price of the Company traded on the Korea Exchange is affected by external factors such as changes in interest rates, supply and demand in the stock market, and economic, political, and social events in Korea and overseas, as well as other indexes related to the Company. Therefore, investors should be aware that purchasing the shares of the Company may incur losses due to a decrease in share price.

The Company discloses the net asset value (NAV) calculated in accordance with “Chapter 2. Company Overview – 12. Calculation of Net Asset Value (NAV) and Valuation of Assets.” However, the NAV and the price of the Company’s shares traded on the Korea Exchange may not always match due to the market participants’ expectations of the future value of the Company. Investors shall be responsible for any risks associated with potential and actual losses in their investment capitals, and other entities including the Company, the asset manager for the Company, and sales agents are not responsible for losses incurred as a result of the investment.

(2) Risks Relating to Conflicting Interests

The Manager was designated by the promoters of the Company and performs its services in accordance with the asset management agreement with the Company. MKAM was appointed as the Company’s asset manager and corporate director in accordance with the FSCMA and conducts business pursuant to the FSCMA, the AOI, and the asset management agreement but may encounter conflicts of interests or issues which may hinder the execution of certain capabilities granted thereto. Investors should be aware that such conflicts or inability to properly conduct business may adversely influence the operations of the Company.

(3) Risks Relating to Intensified Competition in Making New Investments

The Company aims to invest in project companies constructing or operating toll roads, tunnels, bridges, rails, ports, and other infrastructure facilities, and competes with other consortiums and companies in order to make new investments. Competitors such as large construction companies and other investment firms may have local experience and knowledge crucial to make competitive bidding for infrastructure projects in Korea.

They also have sufficient financial resources necessary to make a competitive offer on pricing and terms. Due to this competition, the Company may face difficulties in making future investments, and the Company may accept less economically favourable terms compared to the previously accepted terms. Additionally, some of the Company's competitors may not be required to pay certain expenditures such as asset management fees, while the Company is required to make such payments to its asset management company.

Please be advised that if the Company is unable to invest in additional concessionaires or projects or is only able to do so under less favourable terms, the Company may not be able to achieve its growth strategies or investment objectives.

(4) Risks Relating to Legal Sanctions Imposed for Failure to Comply with Regulation or Agreement

Project Companies that fail to comply with relevant regulations or agreements may face legal sanctions such as fines, or be taken away their right to operate and thus generate revenue from the infrastructure facilities.

Currently, all of the project companies invested by the Company are subject to the regulations of relevant government authorities, and the Company may continue its investment in similarly regulated businesses and sectors. Further, the project companies undertake infrastructure projects that are generally subject to highly complex government approval processes, lease agreements and concession agreements that may lead to disputes due to different interpretations of the terms of such agreements. If the project companies do not comply with respective applicable regulations or contractual obligations, they may face legal sanctions such as fines and/or be deprived of the right to manage and operate and generate revenues from the infrastructure facilities.

As the right to operate infrastructure facilities is based on a concession agreement or lease agreements with the relevant government authority, any disputes regarding the concession or lease agreements may restrict the project company's asset management strategy to maximize cash flow and revenues. Terms of concession or lease agreements may be in favour of the relevant government authorities compared with the terms in customary commercial agreements.

For instance, in certain circumstances, the government may exercise its right to terminate concession or lease agreements without making an appropriate compensation (for example, in the event of default by a project company). In addition to this contractual right, the government also holds considerable authority to change or strengthen regulations and policies that may affect the operation of the concessionaires and may make political decisions that are unfavourable to the concessionaires.

Investors should be aware of the aforementioned risks when making an investment decision.

(5) Force Majeure and Other Risks Regarding Investments

Assets operated by the project companies in which the Company has invested include toll roads, bridges, tunnels, rails, ports, related structures, vehicles and other transportation equipment, computers, buildings, parking facilities and city gas pipelines. These assets may be hindered or negatively influenced by serious traffic accidents, fire, natural disasters like floods, earthquakes, and typhoons, terrorism, design or construction defects, gradient projection failure, collapse of bridges and tunnels, road sinks, labour strikes and other unanticipated situations or events.

Such situations have affected the performance of toll roads, bridges, tunnels, rails, ports and city gas pipelines in the past. If these factors influence the toll roads, bridges, tunnels, rails, ports and city gas pipelines operated by the project companies in which the Company has invested, the public may lose trust in these facilities. Further, this may result in a decrease in revenues generated from operating such facilities and an increase in maintenance and recovery costs.

While all concessionaires in which the Company has invested are insured for the losses or damages arising out of natural disasters, as for certain force majeure risks such as war and terrorism, they take a discriminatory approach in purchasing an insurance depending on the nature of their investments. Damages resulting from risks not covered by the insurance may negatively affect the performance of the Company. In certain cases, compensation from insurance may not sufficiently cover the damages caused to the Company. For instance, it is uncertain whether an insurance claim will be sufficient to cover losses resulting from defects in design, construction, or maintenance of toll roads, bridges, tunnels, rails, and ports, etc. or the resulting revenue decrease and increased costs.

Investors should be aware of the aforementioned risks.

(6) Risks Relating to Sovereign Credit

The concession rights of the project companies in which the Company has invested are granted by the government authorities, which may be influenced by special risks of the relevant government authority exercising discretionary power or taking actions against the project companies' rights under the concession agreements. Please be advised that the Company cannot ensure that relevant government authorities will not enact, amend or abolish the relevant laws or take illegal actions that may have adverse impacts on the performance of the project companies in which the Company has invested.

(7) Other Matters to be Considered Apart from the Aforementioned Risks

In addition to the investment risks described above, the Company may also be affected directly or indirectly by unstable macroeconomic conditions, among others. The Company's financial statements reflect the assessment to a record date of economic situations that may affect the financial conditions of the Company. However, since such result may be significantly different from the result based on the assessment made today, investors should be aware of this fact when making an investment decision.

(8) Risks Relating to Restriction of Participation in Capital Increase by Covered Short Sale

In accordance with the FSCMA, from the day after the announcement of a plan for new share issuance via a follow-on offering by a publicly-listed company to the last day of the period for calculating the offering price (the date on which an issuing price is calculated), a person who has participated in a short sale of the issuing company's shares are restricted to participate in the follow-on offering, subject to certain exceptions (Article 180-4 of the FSCMA). Investors should be aware of such risks.

According to the amendment to the FSCMA effective as of 6 April 2021, a person who has participated in a short sale of a publicly-listed company's shares after the company's disclosure of its plan to issue new shares via a follow-on offering shall be restricted to participate in the follow-on offering, subject to certain exceptions (Article 180-4 of the FSCMA). In this regard, determination of (i) the timing of a short sale which shall be the basis of restricting participation in follow-on offering and (ii) those exceptions thereto which shall allow such participation in follow-on offering are delegated to the Enforcement Decree.

In accordance with the Enforcement Decree, participation in follow-on offering shall be restricted if a short sale is conducted from the day after the announcement of a plan for new share issuance via a follow-on offering by a publicly-listed company to the last day of the period for calculating the offering price (the date on which an issuing price is calculated) (Article 208-4 (1) of the Enforcement Decree of FSCMA).

However, participation in capital increase may be allowed in the following cases, as a short sale is not considered to have an adverse effect on an issuing price (Article 208-4 (2) of the Enforcement Decree of the FSCMA).

- i) From the date of the last short sale to the date on which an issuing price is calculated, the larger number of shares than the total number of shares ordered for short sale is purchased during the regular trading period of the securities market (as of the execution date).
- ii) Within the entity that operates an independent trading unit which satisfies requirements determined by the Financial Services Commission, an order placement unit thereof that has not conducted a short sale participates in follow-on offering.
- iii) A short sale is conducted in the course of trading for the creation of a market or provision of liquidity.

Please note that in accordance with the FSCMA concerning the aforementioned improvements on short sale, investors who engage in a short sale of the Company's shares during such period may be restricted to participate in capital increase in the future. Please refer to the "Korea Law Information Center (<http://law.go.kr>)", "the Financial Regulation Service of the Financial Supervisory Service (<http://fss.or.kr>)" and the "KRX Regulation Service (<http://law.krx.co.kr>)" for further financial regulations related to the applicable law.

D. Investor Characteristics

Pursuant to the PPP Act, the Company invests in infrastructure projects with medium-to-long operation periods. Toll roads and rails have a relatively monopolistic feature and, in that regard, the emergence of competing assets is limited while the generation of stable cash flow is expected considering their characteristics. Compared to toll roads, ports may be exposed to a higher investment risk, and depending on the relevant market conditions, a higher volatility in cash flow. The Company may make additional investments other than the current 18 in its portfolio (17 projects in which the Company has already invested as of 31 March 2023, and a project in which the Company announced on 2 June 2023 that it had made its investment), but since the Company can only invest in portfolio companies engaged in infrastructure businesses, the risk of a drastic increase in cash flow volatility is relatively low. However, as the Company is a closed-end fund and its shares are listed and traded on the Korea Exchange, the investors of the Company may be exposed to the risk of price volatility depending on when the respective investor buys or sells his or her shares.

Overall, the Company possesses a moderate level of risk, rated level 4 on a scale of 6.

However, the rating is a subjective rating by MKAM and should not be recognized as an official rating from any rating agencies and should not be a substitution of your own assessment of the risks associated with an investment in the Company or the Company's business.

The six risk categories are:

Risk Level Level 4 Moderate

Infrastructure businesses, in general, have a monopolistic feature with high barriers to entry and their volumes or usages are expected to increase while their debts are expected to decline over time, resulting in continued enhancement of cash flow and distribution. The Company has strong potential for growth and, considering these aspects, the Company considers itself suitable to “investors with preference for stable, long-term cash flow.”

[MKAM Internal Risk Rating Criteria]

Level	Category	Detailed Criteria ¹
Level 1	Very High	① Collective Investment Vehicles (CIVs) that require caution due to unique profit structure including leverage, etc. ② CIVs investing mostly in Derivative-Linked Securities (DLS) exceeding Maximum Loss ² of 20% ③ Other CIVs with a similar level of risk

12. Calculation of Net Asset Value (NAV) and Valuation of Assets

A. Calculation and Disclosure of NAV

The total NAV of the Company's portfolio is calculated as the sum of the asset value of each asset in the portfolio less the total liabilities. For all equity and loan investments in Infrastructure Assets, the Company has adopted a valuation policy where all equity investments are held at their acquisition cost and all loan investments are held at their amortized costs. The NAV per share is calculated by dividing the total NAV by the number of shares on issue.

Accordingly, the Company's total NAV and, as a result, the NAV per share may not match the share price determined by the stock market or the market participants' expectation of the future value of the Company.

As a result, it is not anticipated that the Company's NAV per share will vary greatly from period to period and, as a result, the value of the Company's equity and loan investments in Infrastructure Assets may not match the value judged by the market.

Item	Description
Calculation method	NAV = (total assets – total liabilities) / number of outstanding shares
Calculation frequency	Daily
Disclosure frequency	Quarterly (daily disclosure is not required under the PPP Act)
Disclosure method and place	Included in the quarterly asset management reports

B. Valuation of Assets

(1) Asset Valuation

The Company's policy is to record all investments in the Company's portfolio in accordance with the FSCMA. The table below summarizes the valuation method adopted for each asset class. Unlisted stocks are valued according to the fair prices determined by the Company's Committee for Asset Valuation in light of such stocks' acquisition costs and market prices, pursuant to the Enforcement Decree of the FSCMA. The Company's Committee for Asset Valuation has determined to adopt an acquisition cost of unlisted stock as a fair value of it.

Asset	Valuation method
Unlisted stocks	Acquisition cost
Loans	Amortised cost

(2) Committee for Asset Valuation

1) Members: Representative Director (Chairperson), Chief Operating Officer, manager responsible for asset management, Finance manager, Compliance manager, manager responsible for risk management, and other persons appointed by the Chairperson

2) Responsibilities: Asset valuation described in Asset Valuation Standards required by the FSCMA Article 238(3)

Asset Management Fee

The asset management fee is payable quarterly in arrears and is calculated as follows:

$$[(NIV+C) \times 0.85\%] \times (N/365)$$

Where:

NIV = the net investment value for the relevant quarter

C = the aggregate commitments to be made by the Company, its wholly owned companies, trusts and other entities with respect to the investments (other than cash and cash equivalents)

N = the number of days in the quarter

The net investment value (NIV) for any quarter equals (i.e. ①+②-③). If the Company's net borrowings (i.e., ②-③) is a positive value, it shall be deemed zero (0) when calculating the NIV.

① The Company's market value being:

a. in respect of a quarter, the aggregate of the market value of the Company's shares calculated on the basis of the average closing number of the Company's shares issued and outstanding during each trading day of the quarter multiplied by the volume weighted average trading price per share traded on the Korea Exchange over those trading days; and

b. in the event the Company's shares are de-listed, the aggregate of the market value of the Company's shares calculated on the basis of the average closing number of the Company's shares issued and outstanding during each trading day of the quarter in which the de-listing occurs and ending on the date of the de-listing of the Company's shares, multiplied by the volume weighted average trading price per share traded on the Korea Exchange over those trading days; plus

② External borrowings

The total amount of any external borrowings by the Company, the Company's wholly-owned companies, trusts or other entities (but not including any borrowings held by any operating or project company, trust or other entity controlled by the Company or held specifically for the benefit of such an entity) at the end of the quarter)

③ Cash or cash equivalents

The aggregate amount invested by the Company, the Company's wholly-owned companies, trusts or other entities in cash or cash equivalents (but not including cash or cash equivalents held by any operating or project company, trust or other entity controlled by the Company or held specifically for the benefit of such an entity) at the end of the quarter.

The asset management fee for a quarter is due as at the last day of each quarter and is to be calculated by the asset management company as at the last day of each quarter and is payable in cash by the Company to the asset management company within 15 business days thereafter. The asset management company may apply all or a portion of the asset management fee payable to it in respect of any quarter to purchase the Company's shares, to

Pursuant to the FSCMA and in accordance with the Company's AOI, the Company is permitted to declare and pay distributions to the Company's shareholders in the form of distributions or over-distributions of profits. Over-distributions of profits are distributions to the shareholders in excess of accounting profits for the relevant fiscal period. Such over-distributions of profits may include, at the Company's discretion, but would not be limited to, distributions of cash held on reserve or cash received from the investments, such as principal payments on the loans and proceeds from refinancing, which are not otherwise reflected in the Company's non-consolidated income statements.

The Company intends to declare and distribute to the shareholders the greater of (i) the income in each business year or (ii) the distributable income, in each case in relation to Article 51-2 of the Korean Corporate Tax Act for deduction of such distributions from the Company's taxable income, but this may change in future upon the Board's resolution or change in distribution policy. Here, distributable income is defined for such purposes as the non-consolidated net income after deduction of income taxes as set forth in the Company's financial statements prepared under Korean GAAP, adjusted further to include retained earnings or deduct any deficit and any earned surplus reserve pursuant to Article 458 of the Commercial Code. If needed, the Company may make distributions to shareholders through refinancing under discretion. In the event that there is an expense item which results in a decrease in the Company's distributable income for any given fiscal period, the Company may, at the Company's discretion, make an over-distribution of profits to shareholders to neutralise the impact of such item on cash distributions received by the shareholders. Non-recurring and one-off items such as loan establishment fees are considered examples of such expense items.

Conversely, in the event that an income item increases the Company's distributable income for any given fiscal period, the Company may, at the Company's discretion, choose not to distribute some of the distributable income but the Company does not expect distribution less than 90% of the distributable income for any fiscal period.

The Company's distribution policy will also be based on maintaining prudent reserves to ensure the Company remains solvent and that, among other things, the Company adequately provides for working capital costs. From time to time, the Company may retain distributions or proceeds from the realisation of investments to fund future investments. The declaration and payment of any future distribution will, in any case, be subject to the limitation that over-distribution of profits does not exceed the balance of the Company's NAV less a minimum NAV, on a non-consolidated basis, of KRW 5.0 billion.

The foregoing are statements of the Company's present distribution policy which may be subject to modification (including the reduction or non-declaration of any distributions) in the sole and absolute discretion of the Board of directors. The declaration of any future distributions will be subject to the decision of the Board of directors. The form, frequency and amount of future distributions (if any) on the Company's shares will depend on its earnings, financial position, results of operations, contractual restrictions, provisions of applicable law and other factors which the Company's Board of directors may deem relevant.

The Company will pay distributions in KRW. The Company may implement a stock distribution scheme. If the Company decides to proceed with the implementation of a stock distribution scheme, the proposal for the adoption of such scheme will be subject to approval from the Company's Board of directors. Such scheme, if adopted, will allow the shareholders to receive distributions in the form of new shares instead of in cash, and will enable the shareholders to acquire additional shares without having to incur transaction costs such as brokerage costs or stamp duty (if applicable). It is expected that any new shares issued pursuant to such scheme will be issued at the then prevailing prices at which the Company's shares are traded on the Korea Exchange, although the Company may issue such shares at a discount to prevailing prices subject to the approval of the Board of directors.

Note 7) The price of stocks traded on the Korea Exchange Stock Market is influenced by various external factors and company-specific indicators, including fluctuations in interest rates, market supply and demand conditions, as well as domestic and foreign economic, political, and social events. As a result, investors who hold shares of a company may experience fluctuations in their rate of return as the stock price rises or falls. However, entering 2023, there are indications of recovery in the Company's share price, with a closing price of KRW 11,050 at the end of 2022 and a closing price of KRW 13,590 on 12 June 2023.

Note 3) Returns on actual investments may differ depending on the time of investments and they need to be calculated separately

Note 4) Reference index: no index available for comparison since the Company is the only listed infrastructure fund in Korea

If shares are transferred within Korea Exchange, the seller becomes subject to Securities Transaction Tax ("STT") at the rate of 0.05% (or 0.03% from 1 January 2024 to 31 December 2024, and 0% thereafter) and Agricultural and Fishery Special Tax at the rate of 0.15% on the sales price. Meanwhile, if shares are transferred outside Korea Exchange, STT of 0.35% on the sales price is levied (but not Agricultural and Fishery Special Tax). tax resident country (Tax resident certificate issued by competent tax authorities) to the Company and income payers before the dividend payment date.

Capital gains on transfer of shares in the Company are subject to withholding tax at the lower of (i) 11% (including local income tax) of sales proceeds or (ii) 22% (to the extent that the acquisition and divestment prices of the shares are proved, including local income tax) of capital gains, unless otherwise stated under applicable double tax treaty. STT (and/or Agricultural and Fishery Special Tax) on non-resident shareholders would generally be treated as that of STT (and/or Agricultural Fishery Special Tax) on Korean resident shareholders.

3) Proposed regulations in introducing new rules on taxation of individuals' "Financial Investment Income"

Under the amendment to the Income Tax Act (Act No. 17757, 29 December 2020) on 29 December 2020, financial investment income has been newly introduced. Initially, taxation thereof was intended to be enforced from 1 January 2023, but the Act was amended to be enforced as of 1 January 2025. The main contents of the proposed bill are as follows: income generated from stocks, bonds, investment contract securities, redemption of collective investment securities, derivative-linked securities and derivatives, etc. would constitute Financial Investment Income and would be taxed as such, separately from Consolidated Individual Income, Retirement Income, or Capital Gains, in consideration of its characteristics and risk of losses which may arise from financial investments. For example, capital gains of listed stocks held by a resident individual who is not a major shareholder are currently not subject to individual income tax, but according to the amendment to the Income Tax Act, it would be taxed as 'Financial Investment Income' from 1 January 2025. Please consult with a tax expert for more details.

*Tax rates, taxation method, etc. mentioned above are subject to change in future depending on changes in policy of the Korean government or relevant tax laws and regulations.
